Preventive Dentistry
Oral health education and home care of the mouth are the indispensable foundation of preventive dentistry. The dentists' best efforts toward the solution of this problem will be retarded and frustrated unless prospective patients realize the seriousness of the situation and do their part, conscientiously. Prevention will become an established fact and professional advice and care will attain the greatest success from the hearty, enlightened cooperation of the people and the profession.
DENTISTRY HAS undergone many changes since it became a profession in 1840, with the establishment of the first dental college. Older practitioners and dental educators have witnessed an amazing growth. We have seen the entrance requirements advance from a grammar school education to the college preparation now necessary for entering a dental school. Changes in the pre-dental requirements have necessitated changes in the dental curriculum itself. More and more time has been devoted to the training of the dentist. This increased training has resulted in a very high technical facility. As a result of the emphasis placed upon the more mechanical phases of dental teaching, American dentists are now regarded as the most highly efficient in the world.

The advances in the more medical aspects of the dental curriculum have not been so spectacular. Recently, however, the need of a more thorough scientific training for dentists has become apparent. The American Association of Dental Schools, realizing this, conducted an intensive study, and published in 1935 a report embodying suggested changes in dental teaching.

Upon reading “The Report of the Curriculum Survey Committee” of this organization, one is impressed with the fact that the greatest need in dental training is that of additional emphasis in the erroneously-called “theoretical subjects” of the dental curriculum, such as bacteriology, pathology, histology, physiology, etc. In addition, the Curriculum Survey Committee has advised the inclusion of new subjects in the dental curriculum. All these changes have been suggested in order that the dentist of tomorrow may have an intelligent grasp of the importance of dentistry as a branch of health service. The day of the “tooth plumber” is gone forever.

Dentistry has already achieved a high technical perfection. The next great expansion will occur in the more medical aspects of the profession. The Atlanta-Southern Dental College, like many other progressive dental schools, realizes this. It has been one of the very first dental schools to put in operation the curricular changes suggested by the Report of the Curriculum Survey Committee.

With the continued improvement in the dental curriculum, the dental student of today may confidently look forward to entering a profession held infinitely higher in public esteem than has been the case in the past. Mechanical training for the dental student must not and shall not be neglected, for it is vitally important. The profession now realizes, however, that mechanics alone can never make of dentistry a real science. Mechanical perfection, plus a scientific attitude and approach, can do so. The changing dental curriculum reflects this attitude.

By Ralph R. Byrnes, D.D.S., F.A.C.D.
Dean, The Atlanta-Southern Dental College.

The term "Preventive Dentistry" is a kind of verbal omnibus in which a heterogeneous group of dental ideas is conveyed. Looseley, the term embraces all phases of dental practice having as an objective the prevention of more extensive dental operations in the future. Therefore, any dental procedure achieving that result could be so classed. Specifically, then, "Preventive Dentistry" includes diet, prophylaxis, and the filling or treatment of minute fissures in newly erupted teeth. Dr. Thaddeus Hyatt has a word for it—"Prophylactic Odontotomy." In his book by that name he stresses the filling of developmental fissures in newly erupted teeth.

Nearly all operative dentistry, in a sense, is "Preventive Dentistry." The idea of prevention of recurrent caries permeates all the standard texts on operative dentistry. From the standpoint of disease, dentistry is both preventive and remedial.

The idea of prevention should dominate in the practice of so-called "Children's Dentistry." The term "Preventive Dentistry," while somewhat illogical, nevertheless serves a good purpose in that it focuses the attention of the dental profession on the importance of early and effective dental operations. It is also good psychological food for the patient. Although any conscientious and efficient dentist will, in the nature of things, carry out the idea of prevention in his general practice, the term "Preventive Dentistry" gives a needed emphasis. Whether or not one considers the term a logical juxtaposition of words, none will deny that the idea it is intended to convey is thoroughly sound when carried out in practice.

"Preventive Dentistry" is an ideal now achieved only in part. The great problem of the dental profession is that of achieving actual prevention of dental caries. Here is a task and a challenge for the young man just entering the profession of dentistry.

Prevention is better than cure. Habits have a tremendous influence upon our lives. During childhood deleterious habits such as thumb sucking, lip, cheek and tongue biting, and mouth breathing must be prevented. Marked distortion of perfect arches always results if such bad habits are not checked. The benign dental health habit should be begun very early in infancy, and maintained. Healthy teeth and a healthy body go hand in hand. Once the health habit is formed, its continuation is easy.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

THE FOUR STAGES

ACT ONE: Scene One: It is October the first, 1933, and the freshmen have assembled at old A. S. D. C. to begin four years of work and study.

Everyone is busy stamping his initials and checking his equipment—which is a tremendous task, as few of us know a wax spatula from an articulator.

Finally, after endless hours of carving, one is able to see a slight semblance of the compound stick to a tooth. Then, after breaking a few dentures, as we are removing that last scratch, and after having dissected a stiff to see what makes the human being “tick,” we take our “exams” and go home for the summer.

Scene Two: With memories of the difficulties that the freshmen encounter their first day or so at dental school, as sophomores, we return with a determination to help them become quickly adapted to their new surroundings.

Then the sophomores settle down to the task of learning the mechanical side of dentistry, which includes the construction of crowns, bridges, making preparations, and inserting fillings.

The blow torches are going full blast and the perspiration trickles down a smudged face. A little more heat to get an even flow of solder, and now a large hole is burned in one of the crowns, and after taking the remainder of the day to cool off both mentally and physically we begin anew the same piece of work at the same stage we were at the week before.

By the last of May we have finished our exams and have gone home for the summer “armed to the teeth” with dental knowledge and eager to “spout it out” if anyone seems to be interested in listening.

Scene Three: It is October again and the juniors don white coats and rush up three flights of stairs to the clinic, nervous and anxious to pull that first tooth.

Slowly as the tottering babe learns to walk, we learn to carry out the many dental operations without being only slightly more nervous than the patient. And even more slowly we acquire a small bit of digital dexterity.

Scene Four: With the coming of fall we are again reunited for a year of hard work. Everyone is hurrying to get his clinical requirements completed so he will be free to do the type of work in which he is most interested.

In nearing the end of the last lap of school work we look forward to graduation, but with a feeling of regret we approach the time that we must leave our friends and go out to do our bit to aid suffering humanity.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

About the first of October, 1934, we began as a group of freshmen, many of us hardly knowing what we were really getting into. This being our chosen profession, however, we were determined to derive the greatest knowledge obtainable at the Atlanta-Southern Dental College.

When we had made up our minds that dentistry was the profession we would follow despite the fact that perhaps all of us had dodged the office of every dentist since early childhood we entered the freshman class of 1934 with the idea that we would be "Painless Dentists," as the signs read, but of which we were never before convinced. At any rate, we are endeavoring to be the best dentists that the Atlanta-Southern Dental College can produce. This is the fixed thought of every man in the class.

We are all doing our best, striving to make the most of each year, realizing that the better foundation we secure, the more it will reflect in our work in later years, which will represent the finished structure for ourselves and the college.

At periodic times, vacations have come and I suppose most of the boys have found time for a little "courtin'," but when the time came to get back into the swing of using the different hand instruments, the engine, and the various steps of making crowns, bridges, inlays, partial dentures, plates, and other mechanical contrivances preparatory to work in the dental clinic, and learning the theory connected with dentistry and medicine in our classes and other laboratories, we were ready to return.

Now we have come to the year in which we "don the white coats" and have to face "the real thing," the pulling and filling of teeth, to say nothing of the plate and bridge work. This is where the test comes, and we face it with fear and trembling, but with the knowledge that the worst has gone before. Thus, it will not be long before we shall have ourselves in hand, ready and willing at all times to relieve suffering, just as we will be doing when we get out of college.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

The present sophomore class entered the Atlanta-Southern Dental College with a bang. Our class was record-breaking in the number of students and we were confident the quality of our work would prove to be just as record-breaking. However, we suffered a great downfall. Although our freshman class of 93 diminished to a sophomore class of 82, our dreams of “instructing our instructors” faded much more rapidly.

Dr. Stegall was the first to disillusion us. After wandering aimlessly around the building a few days waiting for a chance to exhibit our superior knowledge and workmanship, we met our first scheduled Anatomy class. We found ourselves surrounded by bones, dizzy in the whirl of new terms applying to points on those bones which to us seemed utterly products of Dr. Stegall’s imagination. No, we couldn’t teach Dr. Stegall much. Well, anyway, we could still shine in laboratory work.

Too soon we found out that shining in the laboratory was just what we couldn’t do. Those dentures simply wouldn’t polish. In our effort to make them do so we wore the rubber from the necks of the teeth and wore through the pink rubber to the brown. Then there were those perilous times when the dentures slipped from our hands and our hearts jumped after them. Both were broken! And polishing looked so easy in Dr. Brown’s demonstration.

When we learned with definite finality that the task of educating our teachers was much too great for us, we gratefully yielded ourselves to their instruction, begged for their advice, and welcomed their many helpful suggestions. With much hard work and study, but lots of fun with it all, we completed our freshman year and went home for a nice, long rest.

After a very pleasant vacation the class of ’39 reassembled as inmates of the famous sophomore laboratory. When the first few days of checking instruments were over we settled down to the hard work we knew was in store for us. Everything was just as we expected it would be. Crowns and bridges were burned up time after time and our fingers sometimes barely escaped the same fate. Wires laboriously soldered together fell apart with seemingly no excuse whatever—there was plenty of solder. Plaster ceased to feel like a foreign body in our mouths as one impression after another was taken. The formulae and uses of Black’s cutting instruments were learned anew for each quiz in operative. Again and again we were drilled in the importance of their use in cavity preparation. We were convinced, so thoroughly convinced, that we carefully saved these instruments for use in the clinic.

However, through it all we have learned that just as important as digital dexterity are self-discipline, careful workmanship and especially perseverance. We feel that the sophomore laboratory, in addition to preparing us for our technical work next year, has given us some qualities of character that will make us better dentists.

DEEP BLUE SOLITUDE

No quiet is sweet as the lull of forest pines
   In spring, winnowing lightly, and murmuring
To the budding green growth and moss-filled shrines
   In a cool languid breath of a summer evening.
No blatant noise disturbs the soft quietude;
   Here on a woodland hill, where earth and sky
Are friends, I have found a deep blue solitude.
   No unlovely word, no voice of prophecy
 Comes here to break the fair-eyed spell
   Of drooping clouds. Beauty here is quiet,
Soft as the flesh white petals of the eastern asphodel.
   Here the mind is still, free of the riot
Of outworn dreams, and here blown poppies press
   Past griefs into a strange blue nothingness.

HISTORY OF FRESHMAN CLASS

Atlanta-Southern Dental College
May 28, 1937.

Dear folks:

This year certainly did go by in a hurry. Why, it was only a short while ago that we arrived here in Atlanta and finally located that great Institution of dental learning, the Atlanta-Southern Dental College.

Since those late days in September, we have learned a great deal. It was gratifying to find that Orientation, rather than a study of the Far East, was a course designed to give us the proper perspective in dentistry. Of course, we had a fair idea of what to expect in most of the other courses such as Anatomy and Materials used in Dentistry, and even had an idea that Bacteriology had to do with micro-organisms. I'll bet you can't guess what "micro-organism" means, but you must admit that it certainly does sound important. We did not take that word up in class, but come across it every now and then in bacteriological literature.

On our schedule we also found a course listed as "Full Denture Prosthesis." That sounds like a mouthful, doesn't it, folks? At the first of the course, Dr. Brown explained that "prosthesis" means "the replacing of an absent part by an artificial one." Thus we were to learn how to construct a set of full dentures. Maybe if I said we had to learn how to make a full set of false teeth you would understand me better.

Those first days of school you would have taken us for a bunch of scared rabbits. We were scurrying around finding rooming and boarding places and buying laboratory equipment and books. This was not nearly as bad as some of the advice we were getting from the upper classmen. They surely do know a lot and every bit of ten per cent of it was real good advice. The trouble, folks, was that so many of them had so many different ideas on the same subjects that we could not decide which ten per cent was good. We thanked them for it all, however,—and then used our own judgment.

The laboratory work was really interesting and we developed much "digital dexterity." This "digital dexterity" is wonderful stuff because the teachers all rave about it and tell us how important it is to dentists. What is "digital dexterity"? Well, the idea seems to be to arrive at the point where we have only one thumb on each hand.

We elected Class Officers in October, survived fraternity rushing and pledging,—and that brought us up to the Plaster Bowl Game in November, The Plaster Bowl Game is a tag football classic by teams from the freshman and sophomore classes. It has been an annual event since last year. We had a good team and a good bunch of trick plays. The Sophomores did not have a chance. But even without a chance they beat us 21 to 0. You see how it is, folks, we were just getting warmed up when the game ended.

We had no idea as to the great amount of dramatic talent in the school until Stunt Night came off in December. Each class and each fraternity presented a play, skit, or musical number, and judges selected the three best performances. Our class did not win, but true to the tradition of the stage, we gave our all.

Well, folks, it was a great year, and I shall soon be home. I may not be a Doctor of Dental Surgery yet, but feel that I am at least halfway one because everyone here calls me "Doc."

Your loving son,

Harry Roush.
ORTHODONTIA

As denoted by the picture, the homely, unsightly individual may be transformed into a vision of loveliness and charm by straightening the teeth in the arch, and by arch and facial development, using orthodontic measures. It is a pity to permit people to suffer the pangs of self-consciousness when such tragedies can be prevented.

Supervision of the diet of the prospective and nursing mother and afterward that of the young child has produced remarkable results in prevention of caries of the deciduous teeth. Preventive dentistry does not mean only the ordering of an ample supply of milk, or certain vitamins to be utilized by the body. Greater progress will come when we know exactly what chemicals and vitamins will give a perfect level in the biochemistry of the body. Each person has his own physiologic characteristics, his own individual intakes and metabolism. There is a saying, "You cannot build a brick house without bricks." Neither can you build good teeth without calcium and phosphorous in physiological balance.

Honorary Dental Fraternity

Lambda Chapter

The Omicron Kappa Upsilon Fraternity was organized by the Faculty of Northwestern University Dental School in 1914, to encourage and develop a spirit of emulation among students of dentistry, and to recognize in an appropriate manner those who distinguish themselves by a high grade of scholarship. Not more than twelve per cent. of the highest ranking members in scholarship of each graduating class are elected to membership in this fraternity. Lambda Chapter was chartered in 1925, in Atlanta-Southern Dental College.

After many years the Pan-Hellenic Council of Atlanta-Southern Dental College has been revived. The sole purpose in doing this was to bring about closer harmony between the fraternities in the College.

The Council is composed of two members from each fraternity, the fraternities being: Delta Sigma Delta, Psi Omega, Alpha Omega and Xi Psi Phi.

Immediately after “rush week” of this year, a formal dance was given for the pledges at the Shrine Mosque. This was the first dance of the kind ever given at the College. The affair was very successful and was enjoyed by all.

We hope that next year the Council will carry on in the same spirit in which it was started. In so doing we feel certain that this will create greater friendliness and harmony between the fraternities.

Joseph Hackel, Secretary.
OPERATIVE

The preventive operative procedure is known as "prophylactic odontotomy." This health service prevents the accumulation of carbohydrates in an uncleanable place, the localization of bacteria at a definite point; and keeps the small cavity from remaining a protected laboratory for the production of those acids which will break down the substance of the tooth. Never condemn a tooth until you have honestly and faithfully tried to save it—even if only for a short, but precious, length of time. However, once a tooth has a fistulous tract, the customary gum boil, or has decayed beyond reclamation by treatment, it is best to "let the sun shine on the roots of that tooth."

BASKETBALL

It is with a great deal of pleasure that we look forward to our basketball season at A. S. D. C. each year. Basketball being the only organized sport sponsored by the school itself, it naturally means a great deal to the student body, but even more to those loyal nine men who compose our team. It gave those nine men the opportunity of getting a little of that much-needed exercise which we have so very little time to take unless it be at night. The team owes a vote of thanks to those loyal faculty members who were very faithful in attendance on our games, and to that fine group of the student body who seldom missed a game.

The college team is a member of the Civic League sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. of the city. The schedule, comprised of two periods of seven games each, was played with the finest of spirit, and although we may not come out on top of the League, we have the thought of knowing that each and every game was played in a spirit of good sportsmanship and that those games lost were lost by only a few points.

So the team feels that the sixth season of basketball at A. S. D. C. has been an enjoyable and successful one. The most able coaching of Dr. Guy Toph was much appreciated, as well as his fine interest and the time he spent. Pearson W. Brown did a fine, steady job as manager.

The team was composed of:

CAPTAIN MILO HOFFMAN, Guard
Guarded so efficiently that he had little time to take shots at the basket himself.

RALEIGH CASON, Guard
Very fast and able. His diagnosis of the opponents' plays saved many points for A. S. D. C.

BILL SNIPES, Center
Got the tip-off well over half the time and made some neat shots.

GUIDO ROMANELLI, Center and Guard
He literally burned up the floor and kept the other team guessing where he would pop up next to make a shot.

SAM ZION, Forward
A very constant worry to the other team.

MARVIN SUGARMAN, Forward
Moved around speedily and could "swish" the basket from almost any place on the floor.

DICK DARBY, Forward
All over the floor at once and a very capable scorer.

PIERCE LAYFIELD, Forward
Extremely hard for the other team to follow, and he scored many a point for the team.

STANLEY PIRKLE, Guard
Took the ball out of the hands of the opposing team many a time.

PERSON W. BROWN, Manager
AIR VOYAGE

The brown, familiar earth dissolves and fails,
   As fearlessly, the huge, incredible ship
That knows no wave or tide, attains and scales
   The uplands of the air. Here no wheel grips
The sturdiness of soil. Time brings no changes
   To blue and vacuous fields. The ages write
No autograph on shifting, cloudy ranges;
   Here everything is new and strangely bright.
The heart is lifted, yet the heart beats on
   In dusty rhythms. It cannot forget
The friendly roads where men have come and gone,
   The intimate woods where careless seasons set
Their seal in leaf and mould. It finds no trace
Of kinship in these lifeless leagues of space.

—Anderso n M. Scuiggs, D.D.S., F.A.C.D.,
in The Saturday Evening Post.
X-RAY IS OUR ONLY MEANS of recognizing and determining those harmful diseases and conditions about the roots of the teeth. A complete x-ray examination of every mouth is the first word in prevention. Along with this should go a properly systematized and thorough examination for every patient as a forward step in prevention. "Seeing is believing," and to see through bone tissue and the gingiva an x-ray is necessary.

To give the trusting, dependent public the best service, the genuinely ambitious and interested dentist must keep abreast of the times, ever alert to progress and to follow rising trends and latest inventions. Radio is an excellent means to this end, as are the A. D. A. Journal and various professional periodicals. The dentist who loves his work and is concerned not only with giving his clientele proficient, modern care, but in aiding others not so fortunate nor so well-informed as himself, will find time to read about scientific discoveries and experiments, and contribute his own ever-helpful experiences for the benefit of humanity.

"The boneless tongue, so small and weak
Can crush and kill," declared the Greek.
"The tongue destroys a greater horde,"
The Turk asserts, "than does the sword."
The Persian proverb wisely saith,
"A lengthy tongue—an early death."
Or sometimes take this form instead:
"Don't let your tongue cut off your head."
"The tongue can sneeze a word whose speed,"
Says the Chinese, "outstrips the steed."
While Arab sage doth this impart:
"The tongue's great storehouse is the heart."
From Hebrew wit the maxim sprung,
"Though feet do slip, ne'er let the tongue."
The sacred writer crowns the whole:
"Who keeps his tongue doth keep his soul."

PRESCRIBE POLORIS

Your patient believes in you, and when you prescribe a product not advertised to the public, for use after treatment at the chair, you inspire confidence.

POLORIS DENTAL POULTICE and POLORIS TABLETS are worthy of the trust thus inspired. They are dependent on the dentists' prescriptions; they have been used and proved reliable over twenty years; they are dependable adjuncts of a fine dental practice.

You owe it to yourself to enjoy the assurance of prescribing known products of known worth.

POLORIS DENTAL POULTICE

Patients find a pleasure in referring friends to "their dentist," and it is sound business practice to view every desirable patient that enters your office as a potential source of contact with equally desirable accounts.

Make these references easy for your patients and without apology for the first impressions of your office. It isn’t necessary to create a burdensome overhead in making a new equipment installation. For a very moderate cost, you can install an S. S. White C or E Type Unit and a Diamond Chair. The dignity and efficiency expressed by these will make your office inviting, reassuring, and proclaim the up-to-date reliable service that you are certainly capable of rendering.

Moreover, they will permit you to commence practice with new, trouble-free equipment — let you experience the joy of first ownership and the inspiration that only new equipment can give.

Make it a point to see a demonstration of the S. S. White C and E Type Units and remember that the most simplified S. S. White Unit can be easily built into a senior unit as the practice permits.

Without incurring any obligation whatsoever on your part, you can have the services of our office planning department. Ask your dealer about this service, also about our liberal, deferred payment plans, or, write direct.

TEMPER

"When I have lost my temper I have lost my reason, too;
I'm never proud of anything which angrily I do.
When I have talked in anger and my cheeks were flaming red,
I have always uttered something which I wish I hadn't said.
In anger I have never done a kindly deed or wise.
But many things for which I feel I should apologize.
In looking back across my life, and all I've lost or made,
I can't recall a single time when fury ever paid.
So I struggle to be patient, for I've reached a wiser age;
I do not want to do a thing or speak a word in rage.
I have learned by sad experience that when my temper flies
I never do a worthy thing, a decent deed or wise."

SOON, THE PORTALS OF A NEW ERA WILL BE OPEN TO YOU . . .

...An Era of Professional Service to Mankind!

Success or failure awaits you . . . success which will be measured by your willingness to accept certain fundamental principles of Professional procedure and management.

The Weber Company wants to help you understand what those principles are and how they may be applied successfully. Besides making for your use a fine line of dental equipment, fairly priced, we can help you with your office location analysis, office planning and decorating. We can help you to finance your initial purchase of equipment and we can help you with your early mechanical office problems — plumbing, wiring, sign lettering, etc.

When you purchase Weber equipment, you are provided with one of the most comprehensive courses on Dental Office Management ever compiled, introducing a new service dealing with bookkeeping forms; office management; duties of the assistant and hygienist; contracting and presenting all classes of dental service; radiography and all phases of its use; suggested letter forms for all necessary professional correspondence, etc. No charge is made for this service.

Weber equipment is sold by selected, responsible dental dealers everywhere. Learn the truth about it before making your final decision to buy.

"Be game—but not everybody's."

"Killing time is not murder—it's suicide."

"All work and no play makes Jack, and lots of it."

"We never heard of a man catching cold from leaving off his bad habits."

"A man who trims himself to suit everybody will soon whittle himself away."

"I fear," the struggling dentist sighed,
"That I'm a total loss;
I build a lot of bridges, but
Folks just won't come across."

“Men limit their progress in two ways: First, there is the man who can’t stand disappointment without acknowledging his inferiority, perhaps unconsciously. When things go wrong he cracks and looks for a way out. Second, there is the man who, if fortune smiles upon him, gets a swelled head and floats around in space, like a balloon. One can’t stand failure; the other can’t stand success. Both of these limiting qualities will usually be found in the same individual, because the man who inflates easily generally deflates just as quickly. The first-class man knows himself. This knowledge gives him the courage to hold up his head, even under adversity; and when success opens before him he keeps his head, challenged by the conviction that he has not yet done his best work.”

THERE'S A JELENKO GOLD FOR EVERY DENTAL NEED
I dreamed that I was talking
With a Dentist, old and gray,
Who told me of a dream he had
I think 'twas New Year's day.

While snoozing in his office
The vision came to view,
For he saw an angel enter,
Dressed in garments white and new.

Said the angel, "I'm from heaven,
St. Peter sent me away down,
To bring you up to glory
And put on you a golden crown.

"You've been a friend to every one,
And worked both night and day;
You've treated teeth for thousands
And from many received no pay.

"So we want you up in glory,
For you have labored hard,
And the good Lord is preparing
Your eternal just reward."

Then the angel and the Dentist,
Started up to glory's gate,
But when passing close to Hades
The angel whispered, "Wait,

"I've a place I want to show you,
It's the hottest in all hell,
Where the one who never paid you
In torment must always dwell."

And behold the dentist saw there
His old patients by the score;
Then grabbing up a chair and fan,
He wished for nothing more.

Just content to sit and watch them,
As they sizzle, singe and hum,
And his eyes would rest on others
Whichever way they'd turn.

Said the angel, "Come on, Doctor,
There the pearly gates I see."
But the Dentist only murmured,
"This is heaven enough for me."

JUST ANOTHER OFFICE?

YOUR FIRST OFFICE... how will it look to your patients? Will it be in keeping with the modern, progressive dental techniques you have just successfully mastered... or will it be "just another office"? For an office that is different, new, and up-to-date, equip with AMERICAN. The new models, marvels of sanitation and efficiency, are available in any color you prefer... any one of them will be the "heart" of a fine, modern, different office.

"A word of encouragement to the sick; a kindly word to a beggar; a pat to a friendless dog; a smile to some lonely one, will recommend you to the coming day and will add much to your credit tomorrow. It is a pleasant task for anyone to be going about in search of those who need these little services, and showering them upon the unfortunate. Not as a professional charity peddler to whom giving is a duty; not as a publicity seeker who expects to get his picture in the papers every time he does a decent deed, but as a friend of all living things. It is a pleasant task and it prepares you for tomorrow better than anything else I know of."

Every piece of work which is not as good as you can make it, in which you have palmed off, meagerly thought, niggardly in execution, upon mankind, every hasty or slovenly performance should rise up against you in the court of your own thought and condemn you for a thief.—R. L. Stevenson.

"I have never seen a man who could do real work except under the stimulus of encouragement and enthusiasm and the approval of the people for whom he is working."

The man with the average mentality, but with control; with a definite goal, and a clear conception of how it can be gained, and above all, with the power of application and labor, wins in the end.—William H. Taft.

Success is not measured by the heights one attains, but by the obstacles one overcomes in its attainment.—Booker T. Washington.

What is the secret of making friends? There is no secret. Friends, like all good things in this life, can be had by anyone who wants them. There is only one simple rule to follow: it is this: To have a friend, be one yourself.

LOVE IS A LONELY THING

Love is a lonely thing. Come, let us share it
Where lonely things abide,—where tree and stone
Put on the spring’s seductiveness and wear it
Not for the world, but for themselves alone.
Love is a lonely thing,—a marble palace
With rooms to wander in when thoughts grow still;
Love is a long-lost wind that stirs the chalice
Of asters on a summer-haunted hill.

Come, let us take our love beyond the clamor,
Beyond the city’s tawdriness and toil;
Then will your flesh’s loveliness and glamour
Sink in my heart like rains in languid soil.
Oh, let us seek soft glooms, remembering
Love is a secret and a lonely thing.

—Anderson M. Scruggs, D.D.S., F.A.C.D., in Holland’s Magazine.
Epilogue

We offer you this yearbook with friendliness for all; pleasant thoughts of the office personnel, who have been so considerate; hearty good wishes for the boys we have labored with, side by side; and sincere thanks to the instructors who have been genuinely interested in our welfare and who have helped us, by example and precept, in our work and our associations.

We wish to express our deep gratitude to those who have assisted in making this Asodecoan what it is—to Dr. Coleman for his advice in our business transactions; to Dr. Scruggs for his criticisms of the book, and for his poems; to Grover Hunter for his poem; to Arnold Hotaling for his comics; to Charlie Young and the Foote & Davies annual staff; to Miss Poteat, and Wrigley Engraving Company; to Lewis Studio; and to the entire school for their cooperation.

And now the last chapter is ended, and the book must be closed. May the future be kind to all of us, and may Atlanta-Southern continue to be a beacon to all those who look to it with hopeful eyes and eager hearts.

Allan Davis,
Editor.

Leonard McFee Christmus,
