DEDICATION

TO

Dr. Malcolm Howard Dewey

whose inspiration has made us aware of beauty, and whose ideals have reached an elegant fruition, and to the Glee Club of Emory, this volume of the Emory Campus for 1926 is dedicated.
The editors of the Emory Campus for 1926 submit this volume to the Student Body, Alumni, Faculty and Friends of the University with their sincere wishes that their efforts are in some manner worthy of the institution whose spirit they have sought herein accurately to represent. May it endure through the years as a lasting memory of those crowded hours within the walls of old Emory.

Mansfield Theodore Peer, A. M.
Beta Theta Pi - Phi Beta Kappa
1925

His unquestioning service and unfaltering loyalty; his devotion to the high ideals of Christianity; his compassion for his fellow men has endeared him to all who came in contact with him. His love for Emory is equalled only by Emory's love for him.

A Short History of Emory

EMORY COLLEGE was named in honor of Bishop John Emory, of Maryland, who was elected to the episcopacy in 1832 on the same ballot with Bishop James O. Andrew. He later presided over the fourth session of the Georgia Conference, at Washington, Wilkes County, in 1834. In December, 1835, he was accidentally thrown from his carriage and killed near his home in Baltimore. The Conference session of 1836, at Columbus, Georgia, appointed trustees to incorporate the College and directed them to call it EMORY, probably at the suggestion of Bishop Andrew, as a tribute to the memory of his lamented colleague. In pursuance of the will of the Conference the trustees bought 1,400 acres of land near Covington, Newton County, in the granite region of Georgia, for $14,000.00 and, at the suggestion of Dr. Ignatius A. Few, gave it the classic name of Oxford, in honor of the old English university.

In 1837 the College was opened for the reception of students, under the presidency of Dr. I. A. Few. The first class was graduated in 1841. Since then, nearly two thousand men have received the diplomas of the College, and have since served the country and the church with honor to themselves and their Alma Mater, and the College was continually in session at Oxford until 1919.

The original Board of Trustees was composed of men whose names are historic in Georgia Methodism: Ignatius A. Few, Lovick Pierce, Charles Hardy, William J. Parks, Elijah Sinclair, Samuel K. Hodges, Samuel J. Bryan, Alexander Speer, George F. Pierce, Daniel P. Hillhouse, William P. Graham, Seaborn Jones, Joseph A. Eve, Iverson L. Graves, Lucius Wittich, and John Park.

The following have filled the office of President:

Three of these, Drs. Pierce, Haygood, and Candler, were elected to the episcopacy from the Presidency of the College. Dr. Haygood, however, declined the election in 1882 on account of his duty to the College, but was re-elected in 1890 after he had resigned the Presidency.

In 1914, Emory College became the College of Liberal Arts of Emory University, and Dr. Edgar H. Johnson became its first Dean.

With the opening of the summer quarter of 1919, the College of Liberal Art was removed to the University Campus in Druid Hills, Atlanta, where the other Schools of the University were already in operation, and the old college grounds and buildings in Oxford were transferred to the Emory University Academy.

Within a cold, gray murky blue-glassed church
But vaguely lit with shuddering spurts and puffs
Of gas light twisted blue, a preacher spoke.
The shutters' bony fingers rattled applause
As rumbling blackness trembled past the panes
And chattered the hollow teeth of night. And still Within the chapel screamed the minister,
His tale of Hell, and sin, and blasted lives.
And carnal lust, and brimstone, floods of fire.
And one vast gloating punishment of gnashing teeth;
"Be sure thy sins will find thee out," he cried.
There sat a dawdling half-wit girl who heard
And stared with whitened, bulging, rolling eyes
In bulbous contrast to her grime-stained face.
"Be sure thy sins will find thee out." She grinned
A sly, sardonic smirk and shook her head
With vacant glee. A young man near her glanced Sidelong at her and turned away repelled:
A woman hushed her shrinking child's remark;
The lights burned low.
But soon another gust
Of that impenetrable darkness strangled in
And fanned the flickering gas in grotesque wraiths.
Within, the minister told of hell, and women
Wept—and pitied those who sinned. A youth
Nearby was fidgeting uneasily.
"The wages of sin is death!" rang out. And then
The half-wit girl suppressed a chuckled burst
Of inappropriate laughter, looking up
At others near for understanding eyes;
Her idiot mouth gaping open and revealed
Two jagged rows of dirty, broken teeth—
And then she laughed aloud! But no one looked,
For she was thus from birth, a dirty wretch
Whose mother was unmarried to the man,
A pleasing stranger, who betrayed her love...
He must have known the child would be insane.
"Thy sins will find thee out," he screamed again;
And once again the imbecile looked wise
And grinned in inward glee, then wagged her head
About while loudly whispering a none
Too sane remark to some gray-bearded man
Who nodded absently.
The wolfish wind
Barked fiercely at the cracks and doors.
The preacher smiled—a silly, knowing smile—
At the thought of hell; the idiot girl smiled too.
Strange! What a close resemblance in those smiles;
I could have sworn they must have been some kin.

Coca-Cola Song

Emory, Emory,
Thy future we foretell.
We were raised on Coca-Cola,
So no wonder we raise H—;
And when we meet Tech's engineers
We drink them off the stool,
So fill your cup, here's to the luck
Of the Coca-Cola School.

We're not allowed a baseball team
That will defeat Tech's nine,
We haven't a football team
That'll break thru Georgia's line;
But our poker teams are winners,
Defeat we never fear.
So buy your pot, and hike the lot
We need your money here.

Alma Mater

In the heart of dear old Dixie,
Where the sun doth shine,
There is where our hearts are turning,
'Round old Emory's shrine.

Though the years around us gather
Crowned with love and cheer,
Still the memory of old Emory
Grows to us more dear.

We will ever sing thy praises,
Loyal sons and true.
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail the Gold and Blue.

A Prayer

The whispering waves of a saddened sea
Are telling their tales of woe;
The darkening sky looks down at me—
The wind moans, soft and low.
And a call as old as the Hills of Rome
From the beckoning distance comes;
Oh, I long for the sting of the flying foam,
And the song that the trade-wind hums.

On a leaping ship, on a leaping sea,
With a leaping heart; oh, carry me
Where romance and adventure lurk!
To distant climes, where the temple chimes
Ring out with a call brought down through the times—
"Come worship God's Handiwork!"
To southern isles, where the dusky smiles
Make me forget the bounding miles
That lie between me and my home;
To the cold Labrador, where the icy winds roar,
And everything's covered with frost and hoar—
Oh God! Let me roam!

Et Armour Et Vita

I loved a lotus-woman
With black narcissus eyes,
But sated sick with Romance,
Such love soon dies.

I loved a young man's beauty,
The warmth of bare brown arms,
But some strange woman snared him
With orchid charms.

I loved a blue-eyed baby
With tulip mouth of red,
But, grown to youth and freedom,
The child has fled.

So now I love no mortal,
But love the sun's caress;
And see no blush like sunset's
For loveliness.

—Ernest Hartsock.

“Asklepios” is a non-secret medical honor society, membership to which is based entirely on scholarship, moral qualifications being satisfactory. It has the definite mission of encouraging high ideals of thought and action in the School of Medicine, to promote the best in professional practice, and to encourage medical research. But one-fifth of the membership of the Senior Class may be elected, and only one-half of this number may be elected from the Junior Class, but not before the last half of that year.

Owls
Established 1900

The Owl Club, one of the oldest and most exclusive Honor Societies at Emory, selects from the Junior Class each year the six outstanding leaders in the class. The aspirants must be popular leaders having a good scholastic record and personality. On its roll are found many of Emory’s leading alumni.

GLEE CLUB
History

The Emory Glee Club was founded in 1917-18 on the campus of the old Emory College at Oxford, Georgia, and is now in its ninth consecutive season. The history of the organization has been one of steady progress, the quality of the voices and the character of the singing improving with each succeeding year. The favor with which it has been received made it possible for the 1922-23 Club to complete a successful tour of Florida and Cuba. The 1923-24 Club included in its itinerary all the Southern States except Kentucky. The 1924-25 Club completed an extensive tour of Florida and then journeyed to Baltimore and Washington and gave a most successful concert before President and Mrs. Coolidge. The 1925-26 Club will have completed the most extensive and most successful tours of any, as may be seen by the 1925-26 itinerary.

To establish its reputation essentially on the character of the choral singing and the selection of the program is the aim of the Club. This is in line with the recent tendency of the major clubs of the country to present a higher order of choral singing than was true of glee clubs. This effort, on the part of the Emory Club, has met with a response concretely evidenced in capacity houses and in the recognition from the leading musicians and from such organizations as the Atlanta Music Club, before which it has given several programs. Another example of the recognition from musicians is the enrollment of ten of the Emory Glee Club members in the Metropolitan Light Opera, given in Atlanta in the summer of 1925.

It has become a fixed policy of the Club to give a joint concert each year with some prominent artist of the Metropolitan Opera Company. Miss Suzanne Keener is the artist selected for the concert this year.

The Orchestra, organized seven years ago to assist in the Glee Club programs, has completed its fifth year as an independent organization. By request the Sunday afternoon concerts in the University Auditorium have given way to Sunday afternoon concerts at the City Auditorium. The ever increasing crowds could not be accommodated at Emory, and now the Emory Orchestra alternates with the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra in its Sunday concerts. The full orchestra numbers more than forty pieces and includes a full quota of instruments, enabling it to present many difficult symphonies.

Reflections

Deep in the shadow of whispering trees
   A lone little violet grew,
Swayed by the lightest of spring-scented breeze,
      Nodding its small head of blue.

A fairy-frail flower, as pure as the dew,
   A drop from the paint-brush of God,
And yet for each small little petal of blue
      There's a root that grows deep in the sod.

Oh, scorn not the lowly things of this life,
   But value them at their true worth;
The sorriest struggle, or poverty's strife,
      May be giving a Genius his birth.

The darker the night the brighter the dawn,
   Each rainbow follows a storm;
The violets small to the highest trees known
      All spring from the home of the worm.

Manager—Football

The success of the 1925 football season was due largely to the efforts and efficiency of Manager Adams. Ed's activities was a source of satisfaction to the coaches.

Football Resume

The Junior-Senior outfit with its star backfield won the football championship, losing only one game. The Sophs and Theologs boasted good teams and the rats made a favorable impression by their indomitable spirit against odds. On a whole the season was a tremendous success.

GORDON LOGAN
Captain—Football

Gordon was chosen captain because of his all-round playing ability. Gordon is a Senior and this is his third year on the varsity.
CRAIGE, Tackle

“Whitey” was a bulwark in the Sophomore line. His defensive tactics won him a place on the varsity for the second year.

CRAWFORD, Halfback

Bob was one of the “Four Horsemen” of the championship Junior-Senior backfield. He was a consistent ground gainer.

DOROUGH, End

Gus, the pettin’ parson, was a source of terror to the opposing backfields. The interference rarely ever maneuvered him out of position.
HOFFMEYER, Guard

“Beauty’s” play was featured by the way in which he tore into the opponents line regardless of life or limb.

HENDRIX, End

“Klick Klack” was remarkably adept at sifting through the interference and nailing the runner. His clean hard tackling won him a place on the varsity.

EDENS, Guard

This is Eden’s first year of football but he handled himself like a veteran.
JACKSON, End
Johnnie gave all he had from the beginning to the end of the game. He was always aggressive and tackled hard.

KOHLER, Guard
Kohler was the outstanding player of the Theologs’ line. He managed to take a part in almost every play.

LOGAN, A., Halfback
Allen was the only man on the Freshman team to win the coveted “E.” His punting was the feature of every game.
POLLARD, Fullback
John made several brilliant runs in a broken-field. In addition, his backing up the line kept down the score of the opposition.

PENDERGRASS, Fullback
Pendergrass was the center of the Theolog offense. His line plunging aided the parsons considerably.

LOGAN, G., Quarterback
Gordon was the captain of the championship eleven and the strategist of Emory’s “Four Horsemen.” His broken-field runs were a feature of the season.
STOVALL, Halfback

“Stovie” by his all-round playing ability won a position on the Varsity for the second time. His fierce tackling was a feature of every contest.

WOODS, Tackle

Bill’s fierce tackling and vocal encouragement always buoyed up the spirits of his teammates. This is his second year on the varsity.

WYATT, Center

Wyatt was arsenic when it came to diagnosing plays and backing the line.
BASKET-BALL
Roy and his capable assistant “Pandora” Paulk handled the managerial reins to everybody’s satisfaction. In addition to handling the regular season they furnished all the necessities for the pre-season tournament. Roy is to be commended on his excellent work.

Resume of Season

Showing an unforeseen spurt, and with the aid of hitherto undiscovered talent, the Junior aggregation managed to garner enough games to cinch the gonfalon.

The season was featured by hotly contested games, and up until the last week of play, the outcome was in doubt.

Due to the large number of individual stars, the athletic council found it necessary to award twelve letters.

MILICAN

Captain

“Chick” played a dependable game throughout the season. He was at his best in the passing end of the game. At times he displayed form bordering on the sensational.
BRANSCOMB, Forward
Fighting every minute of the game, Ed made the varsity with flying colors. His unconquerable determination staved off seeming defeat in several games.

CENTER, Forward
Abe has an uncanny eye for the basket, making most of his shots count to the chagrin of the opposing team. He is also adept at dribbling.

CRAWFORD, Center
Bob was the high-point scorer for the season, with a margin of points between him and his nearest competitor. In one game he gathered thirty-six points, breaking all previous records for scoring. He is one of the best players ever to be seen on an Emory court.
LOGAN, Forward

This is the fourth season on the varsity for Gordon. With marvelous floor-work and uncanny shooting, he ended his basket-ball career in a blaze of glory.

KOHLER, Guard

Kohler's chief stock-in-trade was his ability in solving the offensive tactics of the opposing forwards. Also his all-round work won him a place on the varsity.

FISHER, Forward

“Red” was the star of the Freshman squad and a regular ball hawk. In addition, his knack of garnering field goals entitled him to a place on the varsity.
POOLE, Center

Poole is perhaps the most reliable shot on the varsity when it comes to caging them from difficult angles. The spectators got many a thrill from his spectacular shots.

SEWELL, Guard

"Sooky" would make an excellent running guard for any team. Not only has he kept the opposing forwards score down but he has collected quite a few himself, scoring more points than any other guard in school.

VENABLE, Guard

Venable alternated between center and guard. His jam-up game at guard drew the attention of the coaches and favorable comment from his opponents.
TRACK
Benton and Watley handled the affairs of Emory's major intercollegiate sport in excellent style.

Resume Track

Displaying a marked improvement over past years, Emory's track team finished among the leaders in all meets in which it participated. Emory ruled supreme in the field events due to the great work of Joe Almand, Gordon Logan, and "Pandora" Paulk. These men were largely responsible for crowding out Georgia for second place in the State meet.

GORDON LOGAN

Captain Track

Gordon is one of the best in the South with the javelin. He is almost equally as good at the broad and high jumps.
JOE ALMAND
Joe won first place in the pole vault against Tech, Georgia, Oglethorpe, and other State Colleges.

GORDON LOGAN
Gordon was the brilliant star at every meet he entered. He was Emory's best point getter.

TOMMIE NEWSOME
Tommie showed up as a first-class high jumper. The state couldn't find anyone that was better.
PAULK

“Pandora” handles the shot with almost the same ease as he handles the ink. He came close to breaking the State record last year.

STOCKMAN

Stockman displayed beautiful form in the low hurdles and dashes. His running was a big factor in Emory’s track success.
Cross Country Team
CAPTAIN CROWE, WEEMS, JALLOUK, MANN
BASEBALL
“SOOKY” SEWELL
Manager—Baseball

In addition to being a good catcher on the Sophomore nine, “Sooky” handled the bat bags in major league style.

Baseball Resume

Battling for their second consecutive pennant, the Theologians swept aside all opposition and were crowned kings of Emory’s baseball league. Their success was due largely to the excellence of their pitching staff, and the superb work of “General” Dave Sargent, around the hot corner. The Sophomores were second in the league standing and placed four men on the varsity team.

“DAVE” SARGENT
Captain—Baseball

“Dave” burnt up the league with his fast playing around the hot corner. He was unanimously chosen captain of the varsity.
BRANSCOMB, First Base

“Smuts’” constant chatter and spectacular shifting of his dogs around the initial cushion was a thorn in the sides of the opposing teams.

DOMINICK, Utility

Aubrey could handle any position with equal ease. His stickwork was a feature of nearly every game.

DUNCAN, Right Field

In addition to being an excellent fielder, “Dunk” was a brilliant pitcher and a dangerous slugger.
HOWELL, Second Base
Ed could always be counted on for a hit in a pinch and his fielding ability was above par.

HARPER, Pitcher
Harper repeated his brilliant performance of last year and won another place on the varsity. He led the pitching staff in strike-outs.

FIELDING FICKLIN
“Fick” was a tar bucket in center field. He robbed batters of hits at times that seemed to be sure hits.
JAMES, Pitcher

“Trigg” had everything in a slab repertoire. His remarkable hurling carried the Theologs to a championship.

PEARSON, Catcher

Pearson was the mainstay of the Freshman team. His slugging ability made him the terror of the opposing pitchers.

SARGENT, Third Base

The hot corner was well protected by Dave who displayed some of the form that made him a star in the Million Dollar League. He was the leading sacrifice hitter in school.
WILDER, Shortstop
Eddie covered short like Joe Sewell and accepted many difficult chances without a bobble.

TABOR, Left Field
He wielded the willow in wicked fashion, driving many slashing hits through the infield and accounting for several of the Theolog's runs.

STOCKMAN, Pitcher
By virtue of his steadiness and dependability, he pitched the Freshman into a hard fought battle for the championship.
BRANSCOMB
Ed wields a manly rachet and his playing was a feature in every tournament.

MOSLEY
Joe continued the brilliant play that has marked his performance for the past two seasons.

MANAGER JONES
Manager Jones took over the duties of tennis management and handled them efficiently.

Music

Her voice, like a chord in the silence of night
Struck from a harp's throbbing string,
Awoke in me visions and dreams of delight,
Cradled me in its slow swing.

Like a low, lilting lullaby tenderly sung
To a babe as it nods its tired head,

Like the bells in the towers on Christmas Eve rung.
It brought back to me fancies long dead.

Dead? Nay, not dead! for again as she sang,
They came thronging from out of the past;
The footsteps of youth down Memories' Hall rang;
Dear God, that these days can not last!

With a swing that's as sure as the swing of the sea.
With a melody mellow and low,
Her voice went a-soaring, and with it went me
To the land where all baby-dreams go.

Then suddenly erratic,
Her song grew ecstatic;
I was flung to the heights on a shrill tremolo.
Soft strains no longer,

But louder and stronger,
The lullaby changed to a wild aria.
Fantastic, witch-magic,
Wild rhythmatic,

Unbounded and boundless the range of her joy.
Dramatic, romantic
Swift passionate music.
She sang of a love even Death can't destroy;
Lyrical, spiritual.
Yet wholly corporeal.

Frankly rebelling 'gainst sorrow and grief—
Then suddenly tender,
In sudden surrender,

Her voice sank to earth, and I breathed in relief.
For again, as I nod to the lullaby theme,
I forget the world and its woe;
The wild air's appealing, but I like to dream,
So give me the songs soft and slow.

Mar. 17. Politics loom in the offing. Progressives announce they will support the best man for the office.

Mar. 18-19. Exams. Like the poor, they are always with us.

Mar. 21. Little Commencement. Emory gets a chance to see what a real co-ed looks like.

Mar. 22. Furrore in the Pi Kappa Phi house. Marion Camp’s night to put away the drunks, and he overlooked Claude Frederick.

Mar. 24. Claude has had cold from sleeping in the gutter.

Mar. 25. Annual Staff decides it is about time to start getting the CAMPUS ready. Shorty looks harassed.

Mar. 26. Politics! Progressives offer Lockmiller President of the Senior Class, President of the Student Body, O. D. K., Phi Gamma, and a bid for his mighty influence.

Mar. 27. Y. M. C. A. elections. Robin Hood has a secret.

Mar. 29. Emory loses another track meet—this time to Charlie Paddock, track star.

Mar. 31. Sigma Upsilon initiation.

Apr. 3. Prexy makes a speech and uses “now, men,” only twice. Dean White, Sub Johnson, and Heavy Duty hold consultation in the Co-op Room.

Apr. 5. Democrats and Progressives,—rah, rah, rah!

Apr. 6. Milsaps Fitzhugh buys box of cigars; politics officially opened.

Apr. 7. Cigars all gone; Democratic prospects cheerful.

Apr. 8. “Twas the night before Christmas . . .” Jimmy Therell buys new suit; Progressive prospects cheerful.

Apr. 9. Democrats overwhelmingly victorious. The “immortal” Charley becomes mortal.

Apr. 11. Campaigning for class officials intense.

Apr. 13. Bishop Candler declares in favor of intercollegiate athletics.

Apr. 16. Editors of the various publications begin going over their expenses. J. Q. Maxwell looks elated; Shorty Fagan doubtful, and Earnest Hartsock plumb disgusted.

Apr. 19. Huck Sawyer heard from.

When home-making begins

You've had good times at Emory. You've had youth and health. Don't let anyone tell you that there aren't just as good times waiting for you after school days are over, so long as you keep health and the spirit of youth.

Before you is the greatest pleasure of all, the making of a home. It isn't a simple matter. It demands thought and work. Perhaps more than you think, its success will depend upon matter of fact things.

Not the least important will be the plumbing and heating. A well planned bathroom is a symbol of health; a well equipped kitchen and laundry will preserve youth; a plumbing system that stays out of trouble will save temper and money.

On such practical matters, Crane is expert. Its 71 years of experience has given a knowledge of every plumbing problem the home maker has to face. Visit the Crane Exhibit Rooms and begin now to study a subject that will prove invaluable later.

ATLANTA, GA.
It was just before Christmas: everyone was on the qui vive—expectation was rife. To the young, life held everything that heart and mind could desire, and more, too; to the older, hope grew brighter because former disappointments and disillusionments were forgot, for somehow the witchery of the season was theirs, too; from the older to the oldest the spirit of good will and cheer had crept into the soul unawares, and everyone was keyed up to greet old Santa.

It was Christmas Eve—the shops were filled to overflowing. The crowd was shopping, shopping, and shopping some more. Arms were filled with packages until it was bundles, and not faces, that one saw.

Finally the crowd wearied, bodies slumped, faces sagged, conversation lagged, and everyone was worn out and ready to go home. At this moment a man entered the store with a little boy of about four years. He noted the crowd, the bundles, the bustle, and then the toys. His blue eyes grew bigger and bigger; his heart expanded, his whole being was exalted to the nth degree, and after beholding the invisible of a child's realm, he squeezed his dad's hand in sheer joy and expectation and cried, "Fardie! Fardie!"

The crowd relaxed, then laughed, a smile returned and their faces grew tender again.

"Verily, a little child shall lead them."
She: Jack got mad about my bathing suit.
He: I don’t see why he got mad about a little thing like that.

The School of Political Engineering

MILSAPS FITZHUGH, Dean

According to the dope broadcasted by our good friend Count James Dumbbrowsky of the Alumnski, a believer in omens, signs and advertising, who gets all his news straight from the faculty, Emory University will have a new school next fall. The name of this new branch of knowledge at Emory is “The School of Political Engineering.” This school was originally outlined to be a subdivision of some other school in the University. However, due to a squabble between the Schools of Law and Theology as to which the new courses would belong and to the recent struggles between Democracy and Progress, it was decided to form a separate school. Hundreds and hundreds of Emory men are seeking to register in this new school next fall and it is rumored that thousands of students from Columbia, Harvard, Yale, Chicago and other Universities all over the country are clamoring for admittance into Emory on account of the opportunities offered in this line.

Colonel Milsaps Fitzhugh has been chosen dean of this new school. Colonel Fitzhugh is a polished politician of five or six years experience on the Emory campus and is a capable man for this position. He has an able corps of professors and a number of interesting courses will be offered. Professor Charles Allen will offer a couple of courses that are very valuable to the average politician. Prof. Allen will hold a class in “Bootlicking” 10 for the younger schemers. Prof. Allen will give some very vivid illustrations in the Lab, which will be held twice a week. Bootlicking 20 is the other course that Prof. Allen will hold. There will be no lab to this course, for after having Bootlicking 10 under Prof. Allen there is no need for Lab work.

“Backslapping 16” will be taught by Professor George Hill. Prof. Hill is an experienced artist in this line and is a capable instructor. Professors D. A. Lockmiller and George Baker will offer courses in “Interracial Politics.” Both are said to be competent in this line. Professors Allen, Hill, and Davenport will teach courses in “Political Comebacks” or “How to Take Defeat.”

The purpose of this new branch of knowledge at Emory is develop “only men of character, integrity, and ability.” After this school has functioned for a time “self-respecting men” can consent to stand for office with no fear of the questioning glance of campus opinion or the taint of political dishonor. The plane of political morality will be raised, by the teachings of this school and “corrupt bosses can no longer resort to those questionable practices which have blackened the pages of Emory’s political history.”
WE'VE HEARD many boys say
WHAT THE heights are
SUCH AS the height of bravery
WHICH YOU'VE all heard about
AND THE height of imagination
WHICH YOU probably overheard
FALLING FROM the town constables
AMBEER BEGRIMED lips
AS HE sat whittling on a box.
AND SPAT thru a crack
IN THE floor
WITH UNCANNY accuracy
AND YOU'VE more'n likely
BEEN TOLD of the stingy guy
WHO WOULDN'N dump the ashes
OUT OF his pipe
'TIL HE got on his own land
SO'S HIS terra firma
WOULD GET the benefit
OF THE potash in the ashes
BUT THE best heights we've
LISTENED IN on of late
WAS THE height of laziness
WHICH PART was played
BY A theology student
WHO WAS too lazy
TO ACHE when he had a pain
OR MAYBE the fellow
WHO WAS the father of some
HALF-SCORE of children
AND NAMED them all
THE VERY same given name
SO HE wouldn't have to change
THE POSITION of his lips
OR THE slant of his tongue
ONE IOTA when he wanted to call
MORE'N ONE of his offspring
AT A single time
AND TOO we've decided
AFTER THINKING things over
THAT THE man who talked thru
HIS NOSE for fear that the
SHARP AND harsh words
WHICH OFT he spoke
MIGHT RASP off a dwt.
OF GOLD from his false teeth
YES I say I've decided
THIS BOY should be awarded
A PR. of high-heel shoe strings
FOR HIS excellence
IN THE realm of parsimony
HIS CHOSEN FIELD
MUCH OBLIGED.

Bull Fighting and Throwing

INTO the crowded arena hurried the motley throngs, now pushing, now jostling, sometimes moving rapidly, sometimes slowly, but always moving toward their objective. From the uttermost parts of the earth had come the flower of the youth and Gold Medal. For to-day was the day of days, the supreme moment in the lives of those present. To-day the greatest toreador in the world and its possessions, Heaven and Hell, was to fight the greatest bull since the time of the lauded Bull in the China Shop. Indeed it was a day that would go down in history as one of the few days worth remembering.

The hubbub and to do in the packed stands became greater every moment and it was requiring all the ability of Chief Usher Woodward to handle the crowds in anything like an efficient manner. But finally his great personality and his booming "Good morning, young gentlemen!" prevailed and some semblance of order was gained. His assistants, Herr Nixon and Monsieur Dumbrowski, were working madly finding seats for their prospects and furnishing each one with a program, on the back of which was an architect's drawing of how the Coliseum would look in ten years if each and every one present would realize that it was an investment and not a gift.

Suddenly a hush like that which comes when Froggy mounts the rostrum in Chapel fell upon the multitude. All eyes were turned to a raised dias in the middle of the arena where sat the master of ceremonies and lesser dignitaries. One of the latter was rising to his feet and a great shout went up from the throats of the mob when they saw that it was none other than Dean Edgar H. Johnson himself and not a motion picture.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I will now deliver a series of five lectures on 'Sportsmanship.'"

From force of habit the whole audience immediately went to sleep, so the other undoubtedly brilliant thoughts of this dulcet voiced scholar remain unknown to this very day. And then the great master of ceremonies rose to his feet, clearing his throat in preparation for a few words. Clad in resplendent robes, his retiring manner and receding chin only a mask for the great brain underneath, this figure was truly a master of men.

"I have just gotten up out of a sick-bed, but I could not resist the temptation to address this gathering," he negotiated. "I have just one thought to impress upon you at this moment. It is this: After all, men, remember that you will marry some man's darter some day."

The vociferous cheers for this original and touching address were cut short by the appearance of Emory's greatest quartet, Stipe, Pauline, Alumni, and Money. This famous group gave a touching rendition of that famous ballad, "Emory Boys Should Be Geniuses," with Stipe and Pauline taking the lead. Tears were noticed on the cheeks of Tommy Newsome, Jack Malone, and their cohorts as the last strains wafted themselves in the direction of the Physics Building and Washington Seminary. The next event on the crowded program was a duet by Dr. Malcolm Howard Dewey and Dr. Nolan A. Goodyear, two famous orators and men-about-town who had appeared before all the crowned heads of Europe and Griffin. Their selection for this occasion was that touching aria, "Oui, nous n'avons pas de bananas" and they rendered it in a very charming Oriental manner. At one time Nag forgot that he was not talking to his Franklin and uttered some phrases that would do credit to Doug Rumble, but Dr. Dewey was drowning him out with a brilliant basso run and the occurrence went unnoticed.

And now came the event that had drawn this great and inebriated multitude from the far corners of the earth. At one end of the oval a procession was starting, a procession that was like unto one of Dr. Sledd's ties in its brilliant colors. The blare of the trumpets, blown madly and excruciatingly by Professors Owens and Simpkins (for in those days every man was able to toot his own horn), the sparkling uniforms of the matadors, Coach Lester, Bullet Peebles, Pomp Colwell, and Dr. Smart, and the neighing of the horses, who will remain nameless here, all combined to produce an effect that was profound. And last came the toreador. Bestriding a snowy charger, clad in yellow silk pajamas with the letters "K. K. K." embroidered on his chest and a blue sash about his waist, he presented a figure that made the young girls in the audience forget the weary miles they had traversed to see this noble personage.

The procession wended its way toward the judges' stand where Flossie Guy was waiting to receive it. When the toreador had come to a stop before him, Dr. Guy stepped forward and got the following off his chest, or that part of his anatomy immediately adjoining his chest:

"It has fallen to my lot to introduce the greatest man since the time of the immortal Bessemer, the man who invented steel and made it possible for me to give a final exam. Ladies and gentlemen, allow me to present that champion of champions, Dr. Theodore Henley Jack."

Hardly had these words been uttered when a cry of "The bull!" "The bull!" came from the other end of the arena, whereupon everyone except the toreador and Dr. Steadman, who is bull-proof, made a mad rush for the safety of the stands. And indeed it was the bull. And what a bull! A round head set upon a short neck, thick, massive shoulders, short legs that bespoke both speed and endurance, and a voice like the rumblings of Vesuvius or the last car from town were all calculated to inspire fear in the mightiest breast. With a cry of "Stone Mountain Memorial forever" he charged, apparently hoping to catch the champion off his guard.

The fight was on and all was not going well. It seemed as if Teddy had met his match at last. Tirelessly the bull charged time after time, and each time our hero found it more difficult to evade those awful horns.
His breathing was becoming labored and his twists of the tongue less and less sure. With a demoniac cleverness, the bull finally maneuvered his opponent into a corner and gathered himself for a final rush. Just in time Dr. Jack made a prodigious leap upward and was only grazed by the horns, but he was rendered unconscious by the impact of coming back to earth. Luckily, Dr. Blinco was in the crowd and, by using the medical knowledge he had cribbed from the Freshman Med. Exam. papers, he was able to repair the damage to the toreador. Dr. Jack's first words after regaining consciousness were, "We will spend one more hour on this topic," thereby showing himself to be absolutely dauntless in the throwing of the bull.

And since the subject had been brought up, where was the bull? The strength of his last mighty rush had carried him through the fence into the grandstand and in the confusion he had been lost. An immediate search was started for him and confusion reigned. The searchers divided into two camps almost as soon as the hunt began and feeling was running very high. One side held that the bull had suddenly changed himself into a volume of Shakespeare's works and the leader of this camp, Jimmy Hinton, immediately sent a request to Miss Jemison to put the volume on reserve.
The other side, championed by John Knox, held that the bull could best be found by holding a special "Bull Week" before the beginning of the regular college term. A physical clash between the two leaders seemed to be inevitable and a ring had already been marked off when Hevi Duti was seen in the middle of the arena gesturing wildly for attention. The noise quickly subsided and into this quiet, which was like unto that of the tomb, came the sonorous tones of this great philanthropist, speaking these memoiable words: "Has anyone got any peanuts?"

Signor Purnella made haste to supply his wants and the search was continued. Success would probably have never been forthcoming if Professor Comack of the Lamar School of Law had not risen to his feet, whereupon the bull tumbled out of one of the legs of his Oxford bags. Mr.
Comack indignantly denies that the bull felt any kinship with him.

The fight was then continued until darkness fell on the weary crowds.
After a consultation, the judges declared the contest had been a draw, due to the marvelous comeback of Dr. Jack in the rebuttal. The only casualties of the afternoon were Major Taylor's pipe, which was dropped in Dude Boyd's long black hair and could not be found; Kewpie McLean's curl, which completely wilted from excitement, and Dr. Quayle's Chevrolet, which became overloaded through the owner's obligingness in picking boys up and carrying them to the post office.

No better conclusion to this narrative can be offered than the immortal words of Dr. Jack. Upon the announcement of the judge's decision, he advanced to the side of his recent opponent and, taking one hoof in his hand, said, "Plato, old man, you are the only person whom I will acknowledge as an equal in this noble pastime." Which was praise indeed.

The Emory Credo

1925-26

We believe:

1. That the bust in the theological building is artistically beautiful.

2. That literature has not progressed in 4,000 years.

3. That in forty years Emory University will be just exactly as great as Oxford or Cambridge.

4. That a graduate of Emory University is just as erudite as a graduate of Harvard, Princeton, or Yale.

5. That Methodists have contributed largely to the world's resources in the seven arts.

6. That students never smoke or play bridge in the dormitories.

7. That theological students are only apparently less intelligent than other students at Emory University.

8. That the immaculate morals of Emory students are attributable to the Young Men's Christian Association.

9. That student activities on the campus are as thoroughly organized as the American Federation of Labor.

Civilization—or What Have You?

I have heard a howl in a haunted house
That has frozen my blood with fear;
I have gasped at a moan, when I was alone,
And the cemetery near.
I have cringed at the creak of a loosened board
With a fear that I couldn't quell;
I have heard the sigh, when death was nigh,
Of a criminal in his cell.
Yet I never have found, in casting around,
A sound that could equal the mournful sound
Of the cries of the dogs in the medical pound,
When it climbs to a shriek and then dies down,
To a questioning, sobbing, saddening sound.
Oh! The cries of the dogs in the medical pound!

I have seen the eyes of a wounded doe
That have stricken my soul with shame;
I have shrank from the blight of the leper's blight,
And the gaze of the halt and the lame.
I have turned away from the flooded eyes
Of a death-bereaved mother;
I have seen the curse of needless hurts
In the eyes of a cast-off lover.
Yet I can't erase from my memories trace
A gaze that's unequaled, that mournful gaze
In the eyes of the dogs in the medical pound;
When they look at me I can never face
That questioning, pleading, saddening gaze.
Oh! The eyes of the dogs in the medical pound!

105 PEACHTREE STREET (Clock Sign) ATLANTA, GEORGIA
Strangers on Parnassus

(Diluted. The author acknowledges his thanks to Frank Rowsey for permission to use the title.)

It was a depressive day, murky and threatening. Joel and Robert walked hurriedly, silently; the one with an air of desperation, of effort, the other a bit more self-confidently. They turned down a side street, and Joel’s step lagged noticeably. The street was rather dowdy, rather frowzy; the branches of the trees were bare and soot-laden; detached leaves swirled around in sodden, melancholy circles, touching, for a brief instant, the trouser-legs of the two boys. Joel shuddered—there was something clammy, something unhealthy about their touch. It was as though a dead, rotting hand had grasped at him.

"Here it is," said Robert, pointing to an old church gray and grim in the gloom; and sure enough, there it was. "And don’t forget . . . this is a Sunday School class . . ."

They entered a low, squat door into a dim, futile hallway, shuffled the length of it, hesitated before a door, opened it and went in.

Joel was breathing hard. It had been such a long time since he had last attended church or Sunday School. . . . His heart pounded and pounded, almost breaking out of his body. He wondered why he was so bashful.

Bashful? Was he? He wondered. . . .

He looked around at the room, the dingy walls, the faded, dusty Sunday School prints, the smug, complacent expression on the face of the stained glass saint, the old-fashioned secretary with the marble top, the creaky-looking chairs, and the hats and coats strewn about on them.

There was a slight gurgle, and the secretary of the class entered. Her hair was colorless, and arranged in a strange, uncouth knob on the back of her head; a pair of gold-rimmed glasses sat precariously on her sharp nose and distorted the limpid, watery eyes behind them; her too-wide mouth disclosed pretty, white teeth, obviously store-bought. Joel was aware of an overpowering sensation of welcome, and for a moment he was all but lost in a wave of gushing friendliness.

She gurgled again, and tripped daintily on over towards Robert, who had laid his hat on one of the chairs, and stood smiling at her.

Joel held his hat in his hand, trembling.

Her arm, skinny and scrawny, flashed out at Robert, and she took his hand in hers, shaking it effusively, and talking in a silly undertone. Then she turned away from him, and came towards Joel.

"So this is Joel Smith," she said. She shook hands with him.

"My," she said, nodding her head emphatically. "My, but we’re glad to have you. You should have come before this."

Their hands fell apart.

"And so your name is Smith," she smiled. "You know, we have so many Smiths in this class, that you really ought to feel quite at home. Bob should have brought you here before."

A wisp of hair slipped down over her forehead and hung there, dangling.

"Well, Bob," she said. Go on in the other room. The lesson is just starting. I'll take care of your friend."

Bob closed the door after him, and Joel, nervous and quivering, was left alone with the secretary.

"All right, now," she said "put your hat and coat over there on one of the chairs, and then come over here and I'll sign you up in a hurry."

"This is a miserable day, isn't it?" he asked, wondering if that was the correct thing to say.

"Yes, it is; but we shouldn't allow the weather to worry us. Now, do you wish to join our class?"

"Well, I don't—a—know. It's beginning to rain, see—"

A flash of lightning rent the gloom, and showed to Joel a sheet of rain pouring down the colored-glass windows. The leafless trees outside whined like spectres in the avalanche of water.

"Well, Mr. Smith, you must decide, of course; we'd really like to have you as one of us."

There was nothing to say, and Joel knew it. He had only intended coming as a visitor . . . and for Bob to go off and desert him like this . . . ! He wanted to run, to leave; his first impulse was to break for the door and out into the night. But the rain . . .

The secretary was growing impatient; her smile was less embracing.

"Come," she said, "You shouldn't have to hesitate like this. Think of your dear old grandmother and how much this would please her. We will show you how . . . ."

Suddenly Joel flushed; this seemed such a strange way to talk of God—so personal.

"Let's go in, then," she said, "and see how you like the members."

Joel hung back, in an agony of bashfulness.

"Are you afraid?" she asked, taking his hand in hers again. Her face was so close to his that Joel could feel her breath fanning his cheeks. He thought of Listerine.

She opened the door to the other room, and Joel saw, scattered about in nondescript chairs, several boys and girls; vapid faces wearing a pasty, martyr-like look blotching out of the murkiness.

"No," he lied.

"Then why . . . ?"

"I can't; oh, I can't; I won't . . . ."

"Please . . . ."

He pulled away from her; seized his hat and slammed the door behind him. He was gone; the secretary was amazed.

For a moment he stood on the steps leading down to the sidewalk.

The rain like so many needles was whipping him across the face. The wind, cold and fresh, made him breathe harder.

"Oh, dear," he said, and stepped out into the storm . . . .

You go to college but once. In the selection of an institution consider that—

1. Wesleyan is noted because it is the oldest of the colleges for women.

2. It ranks with the strongest colleges in the South and its diploma is recognized by the leading universities of the Nation.

3. It is open only to the graduates of accredited high schools and has a student body of choice young women.

4. In both the School of Liberal Arts and the School of Fine Arts, the equipment is excellent in every particular, furnishing the best scientific laboratories, a library of 11,000 volumes, studios for instruction in piano, violin and pipe organ.

5. Its faculty are men and women of the highest attainment, having had the best training that the universities afford.

6. A strong athletic association, field sports, a great gymnasium and a splendid swimming pool, all under a competent director, help to make Wesleyan's remarkable health record.

7. Democratic ideals, student government, friendly association of students and teachers make a perfect home life.

8. The college stands for religious education and makes of supreme importance the highest ideals of moral character.

9. The history of Wesleyan has been great; her future will be greater.

10. Early registration advised.

"THEY USED TO CALL ME 'WEARY WINIFRED'"

The personal story of a woman who never was really sick, yet always ailing—how she made herself into a virile being of super-health and strength.

IN New York City there lives a woman who has such amazing vitality that she is the envy of all her friends. Yet not so long ago they used to call her "Weary Winifred."

"The strangest thing," she says, "is that I never realized there was anything really the matter with me. My life, I thought, was that of the 'average' wife and mother. I never asked myself why this should be so."

That little book opened my eyes. Today I am practically never tired. I am never nervous or irritable. I never have any of the petty ailments from which so many women suffer. I look fifteen years younger than most other women of my age. My step is springy, my eyes are bright, my skin is firm and clear, and my body is slender and has the free, lithe grace of a young girl.

"And because I know that there are thousands of women who are now living as I did, miserable victims of real women, I cannot too strongly recommend that they take this simple way out of their troubles. It is a way that opens the eyes and brings new life into the body and new hope into the soul."

DIRECTLY AID STATE

It is the intangible, the invisible, that affects our lives most. You can neither feel an emotion with your hands nor see a thought with your eyes, yet emotion and thought are the two primary forces of life, causing and governing every action of every living individual.

The life of every one in Georgia is profoundly and favorably affected by the public utility companies of the State.

The dollars which these companies bring into Georgia as investments—the millions of dollars annually—create wealth in which all Georgia shares.

This money purchases material, employs men, pays taxes, increases property valuations, attracts new citizens and new dollars, establishes new markets, builds trade, earns and creates and distributes wealth, for the benefit of all.

The public utility companies are to-day the biggest single developers in the State of Georgia.

A Few Statistics Collected at Random

778,563 cigarettes were smoked on the Emory Campus in 1925. It is estimated that if these had been placed end to end and strung on a piece of twine some darn woman would have come along and said "Ain't that cute!"

14,096 fountain pens were announced as lost last year. It is estimated that had all these been found hardly any, if any, of them would have been returned to their rightful ex-owners.

Statistics show that there has been an increase of 300 per cent, in the number of cigars smoked since J. Q. Maxwell, Shorty Fagan and Milsaps Fitzhugh came to Emory, over the years back in high school when they thought it was wrong to vote for yourself.

86,019,000 eggs, or embryonic chicks, were served at the dining hall during the year 1925. It is estimated that had these eggs been given a few more days to hatch, there would have undoubtedly been more chickens, both hens and roosters, in America today.

During the past year the president, in public addresses alone spoke 50,000,000 words, 50,000,000 of which were "For after all's."

How to "Write up" Your Senior "Write up"

By LINOV BULLSKI

It is absolutely essential that one be in the right frame of mind, mentally and physically, before beginning the stupendous task of writing up what he has done since he pulled out his credentials and matriculated in this Episcopal university back in the days when deans were demigods and freshmen were quakers, speaking from a vibratory standpoint. In fact, one should be in exactly the right attitude in every way before beginning this arduous and eulogistic undertaking, keeping in mind always that a write-up should read like a diary or fiction story (more'n likely the latter is preferable and most generally in use) and remember, too, that this is a land of free speech and that "To spare the words ruins the narrative." Having made an intensive study of the extensive style of several of the "masters" in the art of autobiography such as "Minnie" Watson, Chas. Napoleon Johnson, and Huck Sawyer, we feel qualified to give a few general rules which should be followed when writing of the honors which you have so profusely piled up for yourself. Herein is contained what we consider an ideal inclusive write-up: We admit it's not original, but parts were copied from the above-mentioned "Masters."

General Rules

I. Never abbreviate. If you're a D. V. S. man spell it to the world.
II. Above all, be verbose.
III. Use tautology.
IV. Practice Pleonasm.
V. Circumlocute copiously.
VI. In every way, spread yourself.

Now to the application. Of course, the name of yourself and where you hail from comes first, and in writing these keep length in mind. If your name's Virginius Herodotus Hornbuckle, say so; don't jest write Virgin. H. Hornbuckle, and if you're from Hunkadora, Idaho, likewise designate plentifully. Being a member of the Damma Iota Slappa fraternity, acknowledge your affiliations in no brusque manner. Your write up should be something thus:

Freshman, Fall, Winter, and Spring term (1), Honor Roll, Sophomore, Fall, Winter and Spring term (2), Probation, Winter term (2), Junior, Fall, Winter, and Spring term (3), Pass French reading knowledge test; Senior, Fall, Winter, Spring term (4); attend Convocation

"SANDY C."
Pan Hellenic Bulletin

Every fraternity on every campus holds sacred a few ideals which are cherished and respected by all the good brethren of these organizations. Emory is no exception and every fraternity man on the campus has at some time uttered these well-known words: "Brother Blank is captain and star end on the Gypum team this year." "Yes, Brother Blank is a great asset to the chapter at Gypum, etc." On account of this desire to boost their own fraternity, each chapter on the Emory campus has been given a chance to say a few words in their own favor.

* * * * *

Chi Phi. Whenever we need men we have a scheme that puts the usual rushing methods in the shade. Thanks to a brilliant scheme, initiated by Brother Charlie Allen (during his Freshman year), we are now never in need of "men." We have a draft system whereby we may claim any prominent member of the Independents. We prefer to prey on the Independent Council.

Brother "Willie" Watts is Emory's premier social leader. Brother Watts has made us what we are in a social way. Brother Watts is also a great organizer. It is said that Brother Watts has organized fully three-fourths of the clubs on the campus, including the local chapter of the P. T. A. We jumped ahead of the other fraternities on the campus Little Commencement when we gave our famous Advertisement Tea.

* * * * *

S. A. E. We have in White Character one of the biggest men on the campus. If Brother Character was as good an athlete as Brother McMaster he would be by far the most outstanding man at Emory.

Brother Fatima Chambers is having a great influence on the chapter. First, Brother Chambers changed us old "Billiard Drinkers" from Chesterfields to Camels. As soon as we had become attached to Camels he changed us to Fatimas. We have changed things so that we now have a Turkish ritual.

S. A. E. is really coming to her own on the campus after twenty years of inactivity. In fact we made three honors last year—(thanks to Democracy). And, oh, yes, Brother Ficklin made the baseball team.

We live up to our creed: "We don't care for friends outside the chapter." Our slogan is "S. A. E. Forever." RAY! We think all our boys are perfect.

* * * * *

A. T. O. There is no doubt of the fact that our boys have more crushes on the nurses than any other organization. In fact we are often called "The Nurses' Delight." We have four big cave men in our chapter who can mingle in any society in Atlanta. They have close friends in every community. This big four is: Carlyle, York, Ragan, and Newsome.

The reason we didn't get so many Freshmen this year is that we didn't need them.

If Gabriel happens to be sick on the Judgment day we won't have to worry, 'cause we have a man who can substitute ably. Brother Bob Whitaker will blow the trumpet.

* * * * *

Pi Kappa Phi. Our slogan is "Where shall we go from here?" Brother Simms has put our chapter in the limelight on the campus with his chain of Co-op stores. Oh, if we had Julian Rivers! If we could only get a man in Ty Stokes' Barber Shop we would be happy.

We don't like to complain, but there is one thing we can't comprehend: Why should they ship our manager and not somebody else, President. We call it injustice. Think it over.

We have the outstanding man in the Military Department. This is none other than Brother Charlie Yarbrough.

* * * * *

Delta Tau Delta. We must admit that we landed the star pledge of the last year. He is none other than our beautiful, charming Red Fisher. We are going to stage a comeback yet and Red will be in it. You wait and see.

Brother George Hill has made the chapter proud of him. Brother Hill has become a great movie star. He has been signed by the First National people to play the leading part in their great masterpiece and show of the century, "The Last of the Mohicans." Bessie Smith will be the leading lady. All the Delts will attend this show in a body when it reaches the Tudor next fall. Imagine: George Hill and Bessie Smith in "The Last of the Mohicans!"

* * * * *

Sigma Nu. We wish to state here that Brother Harry Threlkeld is not a Jew, in spite of state-wide belief. There is another affair we would like to straighten out here. Brother Jimmie Knight is not an A. T. O., but a Sigma Nu. We want to admit here that Brother Neely Peacock has a wonderful voice and with cultivation should surpass Martinelli and "Fat" Elrod.

Yes, Doug Wycoff is a snake and so is Bert Niehoff. Brother Cliff Hendrix is another one of our great athletes.

Russ Purnell brings the chapter a new sweetheart every week. Russ stands in with all these nice looking little "co-eds." So does his Buick.
Phi Delta Theta. We have two great athletes in Brothers Hamilton and Wilkinson. Although we didn't clean up in politics these two brothers are keeping our honors up with their great manly figures. We made a great record in basket-ball. Every man on the Sophomore team was a Phi. Brother Center was an outstanding star.

We hope our house doesn't sink too deep before we pay for it. Anyway, we will still own the basement.

As long as we have Brother Virgil Hooks in our chapter we need have no fear as to our prominence. We will always be on the map as long as we have Brother Hooks.

* * * * *

Pi Kappa Alpha. We have a very conservative chapter. We are very much worried about a chapter house. Brother Sibley suggested a plan, however, whereby we can get a house of our own by 1957. Our motto is: "A dollar a week and a house by 1957."

Chief Goggans is one of our boys. He has done much to promote the interests of Pi Kappa Alpha on the campus. We have a number of prominent alumni including Willie D. Upshaw and John L. "Pickuppaper" Jenkins.

One commendable thing about our chapter is that we are industrious. Nearly all our brothers are working their way through school except Brother Pete Lee.

* * * * *

Sigma Pi. We have at least one man of ability in our chapter. He is none other than Brother Julian Wood. Brother Wood has a great future ahead of him at Emory. He has attended three C. M. T. C. Camps, two R. O. T. C. Camps, five National Guard Camps, and he is going to join the Navy when he graduates. We are all proud of Brother Wood.

Speaking of C. M. T. C. camps, we have a monopoly on the Military department at Emory. We also rate pretty high in the Department of Chemistry. We all like Dr. Guy.

We are little, but loud. And don't forget that we beat the Thetas! Our Motto is: "There is many a good horse left after the stables have been picked."

* * * * *

K. A. We can truthfully say without lying that we furnish the faculty. We owe a lot to our good Brother, Milsaps Fitzhugh. Brother Fitzhugh has been the thin silk thread that has been holding the hatchet off our necks for years. We hate to see Papa Milsaps leave. What will become of us? The faculty only knows!

We are still protecting Southern womanhood. We pride ourselves in our gallant and courteous ways. We are a chivalrous outfit if you ask us.

We have in Johnny Wilson the champion eater of the University. He has won several intercollegiate contests in quantity eating.

* * * * *

_Sigma Chi._ Well, we got back in and we are glad of it, too. We believe that in numbers there is strength but just the same it was pretty cold out there by ourselves. We hope the Pi K. A.'s get stung next fall during rushing season.

We may not amount to much now, but watch us to-morrow! We have made several raids on Theology and in our opinion we got some mighty good men from the preachers.

_Brother Jimmie Therrell_ created a little excitement in the chapter a little while ago when we had "house cleaning." _Brother Therrell_ shoved the little Epworth League girls out the back door and introduced a few celebrities. Some of the Brothers were griped with _Brother Therrell_ for awhile but now they are all speaking to each other. We are growing like asparagus.
