“To hold as it were a mirror up to nature”

— Shakespeare
The Coca-Cola School

We’re not allowed a football team
That will break thru Georgia’s line;
With all the baseball bull we fling
We’ll never beat Tech’s nine;
But our poker teams are winners,
Defeat we never fear.
So buy your lot and hike the pot;
We need your money here.

CHORUS:
Emory, Emory, thy future we foretell.
We were raised on Coca-Cola
So no wonder we raise hell.
When e’er we meet Tech’s engineers,
We drink them off their stool,
So fill your cup, here’s to the luck
Of the Coca-Cola School.

We cannot pull off gay soirees
We never fling a dance,
And, as to all those spicy shows
We haven’t got a chance.
But when it comes to slinging “bull”
I guess we hold our ground,
For if “bull” were only water
This would be a seaport town.
Alma Mater

In the heart of dear old Dixie,
Where the sun doth shine,
There is where our hearts are turning,
'Round old Emory's shrine.

Though the years around us gather
Crowned with love and cheer,
Still the memory of old Emory
Grows to us more dear.

We will ever sing thy praises,
Loyal sons and true.
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail the Gold and Blue.
A Few Facts About Emory University

Although Emory College is one of the oldest institutions in the state of Georgia, Emory University as it is now constituted is still in her youth. For it was only in 1914 that "Old Emory" at Oxford became a unit in a new and greater Emory in Atlanta. Today the University includes the following departments: The School of Liberal Arts, The School of Medicine, The School of Theology, The School of Law, The Graduate School, and The School of Business Administration—A brief exposition of the history and the character of each of these Schools will appear on later pages.

The few facts below may be of interest:

The total enrollment at Emory University for 1922-1923 is now 1,521.

Emory University had 174 professors and instructors in 1922.

The College was founded in 1837. The Medical School was founded in 1854.

The Emory Campus includes 110 acres in Druid Hills.

There are now twelve buildings on the campus.

Emory is not co-educational except in the Graduate School and in the School of Law; in summer, women are admitted to college courses.

Students may enter Emory four times a year or be graduated four times a year.

The new Wesley Memorial Hospital, part of the School of Medicine, is one of the best equipped hospitals in the world and cost approximately $1,500,000.

Liberal Arts School
Emory College was named in honor of Bishop John Emory, of Maryland, who was elected to the episcopacy in 1832 on the same ballot with Bishop James O. Andrew. He later presided over the fourth session of the Georgia Conference, at Washington, Wilkes county, in 1834. In December, 1835, he was accidentally thrown from his carriage and killed near his home in Baltimore. The Conference session of 1836, at Columbus, Georgia, appointed trustees to incorporate the College and directed them to call it Emory, probably at the suggestion of Bishop Andrew, as a tribute to the memory of his lamented colleague. In pursuance of the will of the Conference the trustees bought 1,400 acres of land near Covington, Newton County, in the granite region of Georgia, for $14,000, and, at the suggestion of Dr. Ignatius A. Few, gave it the classic name of Oxford, in honor of the old English University.

In 1837 the College was opened for the reception of students, under the Presidency of Dr. A. I. Few. The first class was graduated in 1841. Since then, near two thousand men have received the diplomas of the College, and have since served the country and the church with honor to themselves and Alma Mater. The College was continually in session at Oxford until 1919.

The following have filled the office of President:

Drs. Pierce, Haygood, and Candler were elected to the episcopacy from the Presidency of the College. Dr. Haygood declined the election in 1882 on account of his duty to the College, but was re-elected in 1890 after he had resigned the Presidney.

In 1914, Emory College became the School of Liberal Arts of Emory University, and Dr. Edgar H. Johnson became its first Dean.

With the opening of the summer quarter of 1919, the School of Liberal Arts was removed to the University Campus in Druid Hills, Atlanta, where the other schools of the University were already in operation, and the old college grounds and buildings in Oxford were transferred to the Emory University Academy.

Dr. Theodore H. Jack succeeded Dr. Howard W. Odum as Dean of the school of Liberal Arts in 1920. In 1923 Professor Goodrich C. White was elected to succeed Dr. Jack.

Dr. Jack remains Dean of the Graduate School.

The names of the graduates of the graduate School this year appear in the following two pages.

Farewell!—but whenever you welcome the hour,
That awakens the nightsong of mirth in your bower,
Then think of the friend who once welcomed it too,
And forgot his own griefs to be happy with you.
His griefs may return, not a hope may remain
Of the few that have brightened his pathway of pain,
But he ne'er will forget the short vision, that threw
Its enchantment around him, while lingering with you.

And still on that evening, when pleasure fills up
To the highest top-sparkle, each heart and each cup,
Where'er my path lies, be it gloomy or bright,
My soul, happy friends, shall be with you that night;
Shall join in your revels, your sports, and your wiles,
And return to me, beaming all over with smiles—
Too blest, if it tells me that 'mid the gay cheer,
Some kind voice had murmured, 'I wish he were here!'!

Let fate do her worst, there are relics of joy,
Bright dreams of the past which she cannot destroy,
Which come in the night-time of sorrow and care,
And bring back the features that joy used to wear.
Long, long, be my heart with such memories filled!
Like the case, in which roses have once been distilled—
You may break, you may shatter the case, if you will,
But the scent of the roses will hang round it still.

A Sonnet

In this calm season of the Southern year
When soft Autumnal hazes, like the swell
Of Ocean, twine the island hills and dwell
In upper air serene—yet half in fear
Of vagrant winds—we know that we are near
To heaven. Around us World, and Life, and Time
Deep musing go, as to a stately rime;
And what we long have loved grows doubly dear.

How still the night! and what a hallowed peace
Sheds now its spirit o'er the race of man;
As years to years succeed, and cares increase,
With willing heart we quit the troubled van
Of worldly strife, and seek the calm that drives
Spring's turmoil from the Autumn of our lives.

Spring Stuff

Sometimes it seems we must not feel
The love that in our hearts lies hid,
Till Fate love's purple wine doth steal,
And entrance to the vineyard is forbid.

When moon and stars but mock the lonely heart
And long, long thoughts beneath a midnight sky
Add pang to pang to rend the heart apart
And all seems done except the last to die.

How sweet to quaff the fiery cup again!
How sweet to warm your hearts in the fire
Of youthful love, to feel at last the pain
And glowing rapture of fulfilled desire!

How tenderly thine eyes do answer mine,
How comforting the pressure of thy hand,
When emptiness makes way for love divine,
And loneliness for lips that understand!—Lloyd Chapin.

Medical School
It is interesting to note that the first course of lectures of what is now the Medical Department of Emory University was given in the City Hall of Atlanta. The school was founded in 1854 as The Atlanta Medical College. Dr. J. G. Westmoreland, under whose leadership the medical college was organized, obtained from the Legislature of Georgia, to which he had been elected in the same year that the school was organized, an appropriation of $15,000 to go toward the erection of buildings.

Shortly after a building had been erected on the site of the present medical school, the Civil War commenced. During the conflict the wounded of both the Blue and the Gray were cared for at the College building. After the war there was a very urgent need for medical men in the South, and this need was partially met by the action of the faculty in graduating students with only two terms of work, one term being given in the winter, the other in the summer. As time went on conditions improved, and yearly sessions were resumed.

In 1898 a consolidation was effected between the Atlanta Medical College and the Southern Medical College, the latter being a school which had been in successful operation for twenty years. The new institution was called the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons, and its organization marked the beginning of a new era in the forward movement of medical education in the South.
A notable advance was made in 1913, when a merger was completed between the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons and the Atlanta School of Medicine. The latter had been organized eight years before. The old name, Atlanta Medical College, was chosen as a title for the new organization.

An opportunity was soon found for increasing the scope and possibilities of the Atlanta Medical College by uniting with Emory University as the medical department of that school. This change was effected on June 1, 1915. The sum of $20,000 having been previously obtained, the funds of the school were now still further increased by an endowment of $250,000 from the University. Instruction in the freshman and sophomore years was now begun on the Emory campus, that of the junior and senior classes still being given at the former location, in the group of buildings located at the corner of Butler and Armstrong streets.

In 1917 the J. J. Gray clinic was opened and most of the junior work was transferred there. Work in the senior year was continued in the Grady Hospital and in the main building of the old college.

The latest important development in our medical school was the transfer, in 1921-1922, of the buildings on Butler and Armstrong streets to the City of Atlanta to be used as a hospital and clinic for the colored people, space being reserved for two lecture rooms, a laboratory, the Dean's office, and the library. The care of the patients is under the supervision of the faculty of the medical school, and affords the junior and senior classes exceptional opportunity for learning clinical medicine.

With reference to our outlook, we may say that the Medical Department of Emory University has, we think, very good prospects. In addition to splendid equipment and laboratories for the freshman and sophomore classes, she has abundant clinical facilities for the junior and senior classes, and a strong faculty.

As the traditions of various other universities lead their sons on to achievement in the lines of the ideals cherished by those schools, may our Alma Mater send forth her sons as medical men imbued with the traditions of thorough work, sound thinking, and God-led manhood!
To Elaria

Tho the fairy bells are frayed,
That would whisper in the shade,
And the wintry winds made them long since nod;
Yet the bluest of the bells,
That the Mayday zephyr tells,
Will be just where your footsteps one day trod.

Desire

Or ever desire shall fail
   To sweep through a love new-born,
   The sun will sleep in a day-dream deep
   And darken the world at dawn.

   Or ever my love shall wane
   And lose its languorous power,
   The weed will bloom, and the thorn give room
   To the flame of a crimson flower.

   Or ever my heart shall beat
   Without a desire for thee,
   The stars will fall from their velvet pall,
   And Time shall cease to be!

To a Friend I Have Never Met

The western hills gulp down the crimson sun,
And dusky twilight with her eyes of grey
Looks tenderly at the first star, and some
Bird in the thicket sings that dusty day
Is over. Then upon the amber tide
My purple ship of memory floats, and bears
Me over amethystine oceans wide
To that fair land where sorrows, thorns, and tears
Are never known. But there is one small nook,
In that dear land of Yesterday, where you
Should be. A pansied bank beside a brook
Where destiny intended that we two
Should meet. But Fate is most unkind, the nook
Is empty, on a pansied bank besides a brook.—Lloyd Chapin.
Theology School
THE Candler School of Theology was made possible by the action of the Educational Commission, which in 1914 included in its plans for a great Southern Methodist University to be located in Atlanta, provision for the immediate establishment of a Department of Theology. Its first year's work was begun in September of the same year in the Wesley Memorial Building. Following the magnificent gifts of prominent Christian men, it has been possible to transplant the activities of the School to the present location, where, as a unit of Emory University, it is splendidly equipped with modern conveniences.

Since the founding of the School the beneficial character of its work has been beyond question to the best and broadest minds of the Church, who recognize the value of the most thorough training possible for its ministers. The place of scholarly investigation of those things which vitally concern the life and work of a Christian minister is so evident that one sees with difficulty how objection can be made, especially when the training is under men whose Christian experience is unquestionable. Learn the truth and do not fear to speak it, but first and foremost, speak from a Christly heart—this is the prevailing ideal of the faculty for the students.

The work of the present year has been satisfactory. The high standards which are held up have been well approximated. Both faculty and students have heard that Mighty Voice which is a challenge irresistible. In mind, in body and in spirit they keep themselves ever aspiring to that condition whereby they may most perfectly render service to Him who has commissioned them.

Despising the effeminate and monastic type of preacher and realizing that manhood is the true goal of any life, the Department seeks to come into contact with every phase of University life. Contributions have been made with zeal and success and with true sportsmanship.

Each year is tinged with sadness as the alumni pass out of the direct influences which overshadow them here, and realize that schools are only a memory, but this is tempered by the thrill of conquest as they step as Crusaders into the genuine conflict of life.
Memory—Urge

Like deep low calling unto deep
Through mystic silences,
The vast, free open space, call to me—
These studies steep
Me with a restlessness, while far-off seas
Send phantom ships and sea-gulls to my memory.
Close-caged by human artfulness,
I cringe, while pent-up eagle thoughts arise
To crave the distant heights, and press
Me to a thousand dreams,
A far road gleams,
And soldiers, marching in the sunlight, pass before my eyes—
Comrades in arms—I know each face,
Comrades in arms, they march once more,
And I hear the matchless rhythm on the road—
O, shall I know again such grace
Of comrade-faith and comrade-store
Of wit and wisdom, youth-bestowed?
O, shall I ever hear the reveille
Sound through the sweet, fresh breath of morn,
Awaking, calling them and me?
O, joy new-born!
O, early hour of greeting in the glow of morning light,
After full sleep under the soft hushed wings of night,
I bless you now, O golden, happy hour,
Pregnant with memory-stirring power!

From a Skyscraper

Behold! a-top the dizzy crest the eye
Discovers streets, dim lesser buildings, and
A swirling distance to smooth hills that lie
Pillowing the horizon. Mark the band
Of dwarfed forms that flood the deep ravine
Like freshet waters. 'Tis the closing hour,
And youth and maiden, man and child are seen
In weary concourse fleeing from a power
Which, strong as very fate, shall draw them back
With morning to their ne'er-completed task.
Oh, can it be there comes to these no lack
Of higher wages; do they never ask:
Themselves in doubt stern questions: ponder why
No quaff is taken ere life's stream flow by?

Edwin Ames Gilliam.
When the long, long light is streaming
On the waters, stilly dreaming,
And the day is sinking, sinking, to its slumber in the West,
While the hill-tops gold are glowing,
And the shadows smoothly flowing,
Softly flood the purple valleys with a Lethe-stream of rest—

There's an empty, empty aching,
Like some old, old pain awaking,
Just a strange and wistful longing for a heart that knows mine own,
That can feel the warm earth throbbing,
That can hear the dead day's sobbing—
There's a beauty in the sunset that I cannot find alone

Fishin'

Fishin' is the mostes' fun on lazy days in June
When you kin hear a bobolink what's singin' out of tune,
An' all the birds 'at ever sings—or ever thinks they kin—
Is hollerin' fur the angleworms 'at's in your salmon tin;
W'ile clouds is sailin' in the sky and floatin' in the crick,
An' darnin' needles loafs aroun,' or shoots away so quick.
An' you hear the water ripplin' on the shallers past the cove
W'ile a woodpecker's a-tappin' some old maple in the grove,
An' a sucker, an' a shiner, an' a minnie, an' a frog
Is all hidin' in the ol' black hole beneath the willer log.
With your bare feet in the water, leanin' back agin a tree,
Dreamin' funny little daydreams of the future 'at you see,
Jes' a-loafin' in the sunshine—clean, plumb happy thru and thru;
Jes' a-grinnin' at the whole blame world—what grins agin at you.

E. Cadman Colwell.
Lamar School of Law

THE LAMAR SCHOOL OF LAW was chartered and became a department of Emory University, January 25, 1915. It was named in honor of the late Mr. Justice L. Q. C. Lamar, of the United States Supreme Bench, a distinguished Georgian and graduate of Emory College in the class of 1845.

In establishing the law school the trustees realized that there would be no need of another law school in the south of the kind already existing. They therefore planned to establish a school which would provide thorough legal training and equip its graduates for successful practice of the law and for constructive citizenship, and would instill into them the proper regard for professional ethics and a desire to be of service to their fellow men.

With these objects in view the first session began in September, 1916, with twenty-eight students and a strong faculty. The faculty consisting of H. W. Arant and Paul E. Bryan giving their full time to the work, W. D. Thomson as acting Dean, and Harold Hirsch, Harrison Jones, Warren Moise, R. B. Troutman and Herman Riddell, members of the Atlanta bar, giving part time instruction. Judge S. C. Williams, formerly of the Supreme Court of Tennessee, became the first regular Dean in 1919.

On account of war conditions the school gradually lost most of its students, as well as a large part of its faculty, and of the number that enrolled at the first session only two were finally graduated. They were P. A. Megahbee and James Tipton, class of 1918, who have the honor of being the first graduates of the Lamar School of Law.

Again during the years 1918-21 the effects of the war were felt, there being no entering class in the fall of 1918. There were four graduates at the June Commencement in both 1919 and 1920, and no graduating class in 1921 on account of the lack of an entering class in 1918.

The years 1921-23 saw a substantial increase in the registration, seventy-one being enrolled and eleven graduated in the former year, and sixty-nine in the latter year, with eleven graduates in the former and sixteen in the latter. The slight decrease in numbers was brought about by the fact that the entrance requirements were raised, many men being denied admission on account of their failure to meet the requirements.

The Lamar School of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and in keeping with the Standards of this association, the requirement for entrance as a regular student is two years college work. High School graduates are allowed to enter as special students only in rare cases.
Senior Class History

by

Edward Carswell, Secretary

CHANCERY DIVISION, Court of Board of Trustees, Emory University. Emory University.

In re Senior Class, 1923.

This case came up on a writ of certiorari from the Lamar Court of Examination.

The suit was brought by R. C. Miller and J. L. Duckworth and all other members of the class, in the form of a petition praying that said court issue to each and every of the said plaintiffs, diplomas, all to be the rightful property of the said plaintiffs, held in custodia Legis.

On demurrer, this bill was dismissed on the ground that the petition did not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

The grounds on which plaintiffs seek a reversal of the judgment of the court below will be taken up, briefly, in the order in which they appear in the petition.

(1) Counsel of complainant, Ben H. Hill, contends that inasmuch as said Hill is yet of young and tender years, not sui juris, the omission of the court to appoint for him a guardian ad litem, constitutes reversible error. Brewin on Non Compos Mentis, Section on Disabilities, p. 202. Bryan on A Fortiori, p. 397, "If one non compos mentis is entitled to a guardian ad litem, a fortiori . . . . . . McGary’s appeal on Contracts, 19 Court of Examination 20.

(2) As some evidence of intelligence was introduced on the part of the parties plaintiff, Miller, R. R. and Carswell, the presumption of ignorance was erroneously indulged by the court. Troutman’s Entanglements, p. 1, "A scintilla evidential destroys forever a presumption."

(3) It is a cardinal principle of constitutional law that every man is entitled to his day in court and altho Dave Ellis was physically present, at no time was he present mentally and therefore was deprived of due process of law, the interposition of Hop Dunaway as best friend, to the contrary notwithstanding. Quillian vs. Corpus Juris, W. O. Williams, et al, p. 16.

(4) Unreasonable classification as to H. C. Williams. Underwood on Minute Details, every word, every page. Pharr on Labor, p. 3400.

(5) As to complainants Lanford, Shelter and Floyd and all others, it is manifestly unjust and inequitable, according to a sluice of authorities, to deny them a fair return for their labors. Case of In re Class of 1922, 3 Williams Creamy Cases p. 47, "Altho some are in the twilight zone, none having missed the barn door and all having hit some portion of the black, in equity and good conscience, all should be allowed to come out of the woods.

By the authorities stated above and in accord with the principles enunciated in Puckett on Public Policy and mentioned with approval by Baum in his Ramblings and Digressions, our conclusion is that all complainants are entitled to the degree prayed for, therefore order that Diplomas issue in conformity with this opinion.

Po’ White Trash

Dey’s lots o’ talk gwine roun’ and roun’
’Bout a nigger ain’ no better’n a plain ol’ houn’;
Hit ain’ my white folks tryin’ t’ push me down—
Hit’s de po’ white trash.

I knows I’s black, an’ I knows my place;
I’s got a haht what’s white, ef I ain’t a face—
Tain’t de quality tryin’ to huht my race—
Hit’s de po’ white trash.

Alpha Epsilon Upsilon

Founded 1907

Devoted to the ideals of that high scholarship that lingers on the shores of knowledge to discern the light of wisdom and feel the refreshing breezes of the truth that can not die, the Alpha Epsilon Upsilon has during the fifteen years since its foundation at Emory College in 1907 by William Landor Weber, built up a membership of over fifty of the leading graduates of Emory. The founder intended that this society should, by rewarding with membership those who attain certain high standards, be an incentive to intellectual endeavor, and by uniting in fellowship those who earn distinction, give them inspiration. These objects have been gained, and in order to extend the influence and increase the appeal we hope ultimately to become a chapter of the national scholarship organization, the Phi Beta Kappa. A reorganization of the A. E. U. took place in 1921, in order to give it a broader influence and appeal. At the 1921 meeting the following men were elected on a scholarship basis:

"Asklepios" is a non-secret medical honor society, membership to which is based entirely on scholarship, moral qualifications being satisfactory. It has the definite mission of encouraging high ideals of thought and action in the School of Medicine, to promote the best professional practice, and to encourage medical research. But one-fifth of the membership of the Senior Class may be elected, and only one-half of this number may be elected from the Junior Class, but not before the last half of that year.

To a Scientist

Aye friend! Burn up those old and mellow books,
And turn your light of Reason on the tales
Our fathers knew and loved. The cold lens looks
With cynic eye; the scalpel cold impales
Pulsating Beauty, holds it to the light,
And seeks the raison d'être of each curved
And graceful line, the essence of each bright
And splendid color. Science must be served!
But there's a depth your meters cannot gauge:
For rosebuds may be rooted in a clod.
Their fragrance is not printed on a page;
Their beauty is a heritage from God!
Lo! violets, sweet with the summer rains . . . .
The glory of the Infinite remains!—Lloyd Chapin.

Track Resume

The annual state track meet is Emory’s biggest athletic event and naturally we take pride in trying to put out the best. For the past three years Emory has run a close second to the Gold and White flag of Georgia Tech, but she has managed to put one over on us by a narrow margin each time.

Coach Smathers has been hopeful for three years, and it seemed that we would be at the best this year, but the lack of second, third, and fourth place men hindered the success. We have had the men out for track, and the student body has given their support, but the real need is for more men that can reinforce the work of Van Buren and Stokes.

There was a great deal of interest in the annual track carnival and the keen competition between the various organizations on the campus helped to develop a number of good men. We should be justly proud of our record considering Emory’s comparatively recent advent into track circles.

Tech won permanent possession of the cup that was offered by the faculty. Although we hated to give it up, it is certain that she had the superior team and deserves the honors.
The Third annual meet was snappy and run off in good style with the best officials that could be had. There were no records broken in the meet, and the time and distances made were nothing to go into rhapsodies over. However, the work of Captain Stokes will be remembered as the best of Emory’s Cinder path artists. He led in points on the track with two first places, and Ivey and Roberts of Oglethorpe came next as individual scorers. Captain Stokes is said to be one of the best distance runners in the South, and Emory suffered the loss of her greatest track product this year.

The weak spot in the meet was Emory’s field candidates; of course the steady work of Van was good, with eight points, but the lack of other men was very evident. Marvin Parks copped 4 points on the pole vault, while Dick Lester and ‘‘Vep’’ Powell pulled down ten from the jumping events. Although this is a great improvement over the field work of last year, it is the place where Tech outclassed Emory.

The scores of the teams entered in the meet, were Tech, 63; Emory, 47.5; Georgia, 27; Oglethorpe, 24.5, and Piedmont College, 0.

At the conclusion of the season, the following men were awarded the ‘‘E’’ for steady and efficient service: Millican, Peterson, Lowance, Jones, Parks and Coleman, manager of the team. The following were awarded stars: Captain Stokes, White, Mitchell, Harper, Brandon, Parks, Pierce, Powell, Lester, and Van Buren. Coleman was re-elected manager of the team.
Varsity Track Team

W. M. Peterson

"Pete" is no less than a marvel as a trackster. We are sure that we have another Captain Stokes in this tall Freshman. He is a sure bet at the distance work, and is no back number on the sprints.

Steve White

"Steve" has followed the track game for some time and is the pride of Emory in the short distance work. Fast, determined, and a sure winner.

Dick Lester

He was not satisfied until he had made it unanimous and won the Varsity "E." A sure winner in the field events.

M. I. Lowance

Lowance is a new man at the game, but he did unusually well and drew down the coveted "E." He is a fast, determined, sure man, as a hurdler.

J. H. Purks

Another one of those high steppers who doesn't give his opponents a chance. Harris we feel sure will replace Bill Brandon as Southern Champion.

J. W. Jones

One of the classiest and swiftest hurdlers on the team. We predict that Bill will beat somebody out of the championship in the next three years.
THE Third Annual Southern Methodist Road Race, which was staged at Emory, December the 9th, resulted in a decided victory for the Gold and Blue. The entire Emory first team consisting of Captain Mitchell, Peterson, Sullivan, and Graydon came in second, third, fourth and sixth respectively. Blakney of Trinity copped the initial position and set a new record for the course with the time of 21 minutes, 27.4-5 seconds.

The home talent proved very conclusively for third successive time its superiority over the other Methodist schools of the South. This entitles the Coca Cola boys to permanent possession of the cup, and it it much prized by the entire student body.

Each of the four teams represented entered a team of four men, the final score being as follows: Emory, 15; Trinity, 24; Birmingham-Southern, 47; Wofford, 50.

The sponsors who wore the Gold and Blue of the victorious Hill Billies were Miss Vida Cross, of Cox College, and Miss Sara Spiller of Agnes Scott College.

At the conclusion of the Fall track season letters were awarded to: Captain Mitchell, Peterson, Enloe, Graydon, Sullivan, and to Manager T. B. Wight for the good services rendered as manager of the team. Assistant manager R. F. Deene was elected manager of the 1923 Team.
Tennis

Tennis at Emory is considered a minor sport; yet it is one of our two intercollegiate athletic activities. Not only did the students gain some recreation on the four courts on the campus, but some of the expert racquet wielders won honors in the State.

The regular tournaments were held for the purpose of determining Emory's representatives in the Meet. This event aroused much interest in the student body and favored the Spring fever addicts with much valuable recreation. Many of the aspiring racquet artists turned out to try their luck, but Jack Simpson soon left them wondering how he did it so well, while Abraham Silver turned over Dick Bennett with a close score and Jack Kaufman defeated Carlisle with the score of 7-6, 6-4. The results of this tournament entitled Simpson to represent Emory in the singles and Silver and Kaufman in the doubles.

On May the 3rd, a scrub tournament was held in order to determine the best players in school. This ended with Jack Simpson holding the top position.

In the State Meet Jack withstood his ground and won the State championship from Blake of Tech. Emory, Tech, and Oglethorpe were the only schools entered in the tennis events. Jack drew a bye and was forced to play only in the preliminaries. Blake won over Gordy of Oglethorpe, in the opening round by the scores 6-3, 6-1. In the finals for the singles, Jack avenged the defeat of a year ago by holding Blake to the score of 9-7, 6-4, 6-1. Simpson's overhead work and volleying were features of the game.

In the doubles Emory was less fortunate, Silver and Kaufman losing to Williamson and McIver of Tech. Three sets were lost by the score of 6-4. The team went down fighting grimly and determinedly but to no avail. Williamson and McIver had no trouble defeating Gordy and Watkins of Oglethorpe, thus taking the crown.

At the end of the season letters were awarded Simpson, Silver, Kaufman and Manager Peabody. Herbert Plummer was elected manager for the ensuing year.
Jack Simpson is a tennis-player of whom we are all proud. His record on the court has never been surpassed at Emory. He was Singles Champion last year.

Jack Kaufman and Abe Silver
Emory's representatives in Doubles, are a pair of players hard to beat. Not only is their work individually of excellent order, but their team-work is perfect.
FULL OF PEP’’ is the only plausible phrase that might be used to describe the football season of '22. The old spirit held sway throughout the whole season, which was composed of a series of inter-class games. No such spirit has ever been present before in Emory's yearly gridiron schedules.

The Lawyers topped the list at the end of the season, fully deserving the championship of the school. The title was not cinched at an early part of the season, as the Lawyers nosed their way to the front and won the championship by a margin of only one game, this being the final game of the season. They indeed deserved the credit which is given them, because they went through the whole season without a coach.

The Juniors and Seniors put out a combined team this year on account of lack of material, which act left the battle for the bunting to only five teams: Law, Theology, Junior-Senior, Sophomore and Freshman.

If one may judge by the extraordinary type of football displayed by some of the bright performers, there is reason enough to believe that Emory as a whole could show up well against intercollegiate competition.

Each year an all-Emory squad is chosen from the players on the various class teams, representing the best of the football talent in school. The following men were chosen for the 1922 all-Emory eleven:

Ends—Cannon, Tilley, Sams.
Guards—Jones, Baum, Chalker.
Tackles—Clarke, Morrison.
Center—Collins.
Backfield—Anthony, Callahan, Williams,
Walters, Salley, Jones.

Each of these men is one of the most consistent and best performers in the school and their selection was very satisfactory to the whole of the student body.
Varsity Football Team

A. M. Cannon

Cannon, Theolog end, was one of the factors which kept the Theolog team in the running throughout the season. Passes were his specialty; besides he was one of the surest tacklers on the field.

A. B. Clarke

"A. B. " Theolog tackle, was certainly one of the best men at tackle in school. He was equally good on defense and offense and was sure to smear the play before it made any gain. He was the general of the Theolog line and was responsible in the large part for their close second.

S. D. Walters

"Doug " was the leader of the Theologues and the hardest working man on the local grid. He was good on end runs and his ability to pass was exhibited in every game.

J. F. Chalker

"Choccolocco," guard on the Junior-Senior team, was one of the most determined and persistent players in school. He was there with the real work on the defense, and could pile any cross-buck play that came his way.
W. E. CALLAHAN

"Bill" was one of the best backs in school and showed good judgment in running the Junior-Senior team. He was extra good on end runs, and a past master on throwing long passes. His defensive work on bringing down end runs made him an all-round performer.

T. V. MORRISON

Morrison, the Lawyer tackle, was good at making an opening for line backs. He was one of the factors in the Champions line that enabled them to stop the gain through the line.

J. A. SAMS

Sams, end on the Lawyer team, was a persistent man on passes, doing the best work on the defense. He is a cracking good end, and always gained his objective.

J. M. JONES

Another Lawyer guard, and the heaviest man on any team. His weight and ability to size up plays enabled him to break through and smear plays before they reached the line of scrimmage.

RAY WILLIAMS

Ray, the general of the Solon aggregation and one of the niftiest players of the season, was a thorough and consistent gainer and the best broken field runner in school. His defensive work was also phenomenal in the lawyers copping the rag.
E. B. Collins

"Fat," at center, was one of the bright lights of the Sophomore team. His ability to pass the ball is unquestioned, but his specialty was breaking up the line plays no matter which way they came. It seems that he is destined to make an enviable record at Emory as a football player.

E. M. Anthony

"Mac," Junior-Senior fullback, was one of the most consistent gainers in school in the matter of line backs. He was fast, hard to stop, and a good hurdler; besides this he was one of the best defensive players on the field. His ability to kill short line backs was a great factor in the success of the Junior-Senior line.

E. F. Tilly

"Ebe" won the coveted "E" by showing the ability to catch long passes, besides stopping any number of hopes to gain around left end. His playing was a feature of every game in which he participated.

Marion Salley

Salley, a new man at Emory, proved himself to be an excellent player. He exhibited the determination and grit that marks a good halfback. He showed ability in running interference and was like lightning with the ball.

J. W. Jones

"Bill," Soph leader and one of the best gainers on the field, showed splendid work on line backs and one end runs, besides being dead sure on tackles, and above the average as a punter.

J. B. Baum

Baum, of the Lawyers, was given his letter as guard. Although he was the battering ram of the Solon backfield, the guard position is more suited to his work.
Basket-Ball

This year, there were five well trained quintets, and each one would well merit the championship of any college having class athletics. The games were played on the Wesley Memorial court, and it was gratifying to see the number of fans that turned out. A greater interest than ever was shown this year, and a spirit of fairness and keen rivalry was evident during the whole season. The five teams out for the championship were as follows: Junior-Senior Freshman-Sophomore Liberal Arts, Sophomore-Sophomore Medical, Lawyers, and Theologs.

At the beginning of the schedule, it was doubtful as to who had the strongest team, but as game after game was played, the Junior-Senior team showed an impregnable defense, and no team was able to come within five points of beating it. At the end of the season, this team had won every game it had played, and therefore was entitled to the pennant. Running the Junior-Senior a close second, were the Freshman-Sophomore Liberal Arts, who had a fast team with exceptional good teamwork. The Freshman-Sophomore Medical students came out third, and were the only ones that came near beating the champions. Their team was composed of excellent material, but lacked practice. They had a good hard working team, but it seemed to be rather slow in comparison to the others. The teams of the Lawyers and Theologs came last in order, but were not without many excellent features.

During the basket-ball season this year, material was discovered that would do credit to any college in the country, and it is asserted by the most expert critics that, if allowed intercollegiate athletics, Emory would hold her own with any college in the S. I. A. A.

The following men were selected for the all-Emory team:

- Almand
- Bennet
- Lester
- Quillian
- Puckett
- White
- Newton
Varsity Basket-Ball Team

Dick Lester

Dick the demon forward of the Mecls showed some of the real pep throughout the season. His speed and fight made him the biggest asset the Doctors had.

Steve White

"Steve," the snappy little forward of the Meds was the champion point winner of the season. His elusive, roving, and speedy performance assures him a position on any team.

Jack Simpson

Jack, a veteran of the Basket-ball court and a stellar performer in all games, was the shining light of the Junior-Senior team, in his work at forward, where he was a consistent point winner.

Joe Almand

The work of Joe was very largely the cause of the Freshman-Sophomore team running a close second for the championship. His speed and ability to ring the goal were especially marked.

R. B. Puckett

Puckett came up to his usual performance and had the old habit of dropping them in the basket with ease.

Dick Bennett

"Dick," the leader of the Junior-Senior quintet and the best guard in the university, was the main factor in the strong defense of the champions.

Warren Quillian

Warren was a speedy and consistent worker. He knew the game and his persistence made the Doctors a close contender for the championship.
Baseball

In addition to being one of the fastest ever seen on the Emory Campus the 1922 Baseball season was one of the big athletic events of the year. With the exception of the Freshmen, each of the teams had enough seasoned material for a good start, and even the Freshies had several former high school stars. Practically all the teams were evenly matched, and most of the games were fast and close. The Freshmen had perhaps the weakest of the teams, but they managed to pass their hoodoo on to the Junior-Seniors and fought it out with them for the cellar position.

Each of the professional schools, and the Freshmen, Sophomores, and Junior-Seniors in Liberal Arts put out teams. The pre-season dope practically unanimously gave the pennant to the Meds, and in their first games they came up to all expectations. Finally, however, they came not on the wrong end of the score in a game with the Sophomores, and had to play the Lawyers in the deciding game of the series. The Lawyers won this game and along with it the University Championship. Both the Lawyers and the Meds had several old stars from other Southern colleges on their teams, so that any game between these two was sure to be good.

When the season ended, the Sophomores were tied with the Theologs for third place and the Junior-Seniors were in fifth place, while the Freshies held undisputed sway over the cellar honors.

The All-Emory varsity was as follows:

Catcher—Bush—Plenty of pep and a fine little player.
Pitcher—Gainey—A world of stuff and a fine baseball head.
Pitcher—Burnside—One of the big reasons why the Lawyers won the pennant.
First Base—Munx—Dead sure, both at the initial sack and at the bat.
Second Base—Harmon—A fine fielder and one of the heavy hitters on the solon aggregation.

Short Stop—Flake—One of the mainstays of the Junior-Senior nine.
Third Base—Holman—A snappy fielder and far above the average at the bat.
Outfielder—Sams—A former college star who starred both in the field and at bat. His baseball head aided the Lawyers much in their scrap for the pennant.
Outfielder—Ellis—A good fielder, but not a heavy hitter.
Outfielder—Cochran—A good fielder and hitter and fast on the bases.
Outfielder—Pearson—A good hitter and the best outfielder the Meds had.

Manager—Whitaker—A hard worker, whose interest in baseball has entitled him to All Emory honors both as a player and a manager. As an outfielder he was one of the best fielders and hardest hitters in school.
OUR GOAL
L. A. Falligant, Major, U. S. A.
T has been Major Falligant's proud boast that the Emory University Reserve Officer's Training Corps Unit would keep pace with the progress of the University as a whole. How well he and those associated with him have made good to date can best be judged by the fact that Emory has been recommended to the Secretary of War by Major General D. C. Shanks, Commanding General of the Fourth Corps Area, for citation as a "Distinguished College" by the War Department. No less an authority than the Chief of Infantry of the United States Army, Major General C. S. Farnsworth, inspected the unit during the past year. General Farnsworth stated that there had been an improvement "of at least 75 per cent" in the work and appearance of the unit during the current year.

No group on the campus enters more heartily into the activities of Emory University life, and none is more vitally interested in the development and progress of the college, than the R. O. T. C. department. Its growth in size and importance goes steadily on and next year will find at Emory a two-battalion regiment instead of the present battalion organization. The observer of the Emory battalion at its work this year would be certain to decide that the $22,000.00 turned over to Emory students in uniforms and cash alone was money well spent. The Government, in addition, pays the salaries of the Regular Army personnel on duty, and provides military equipment worth over $50,000.00.

Joke Analysis

Tarver: "You say Mutts' Elizabethan Drama is expurgated?"

Noyes: "Yes; he cuts it twice a week."

For the benefit of those whose sense of humor is not so adjusted as to render them capable of understanding the foregoing pun, we add this explanation: Tarver, in asking the question, referred to the text used in a course designated as "The Elizabethan Drama" and taught by Dr. W. F. Melton, while Mr. Noyes employed a play on words, and referred to Dr. Melton's failure to attend class on two occasions in each week. To expurgate means to "cut" certain passages from books, while to "cut" a class means to be absent therefrom.

Young Lady (horrified at seeing a six-year-old smoking a cigarette): "Young man, throw that horrid thing away instantly!"

Infant: "Huh, you'll have to pick up your own; I found this one myself."

In commanding this young man to discard his cigarette, the young lady mentioned had absolutely no selfish motives. She did not, as the boy thought, want it for herself, but merely desired that he discontinue a habit which she thought to be injurious to his health. It is possible that the lad had seen women smoke, and his first mental reaction was that of preservation of personal property.

Brenau Girl: "What are you thinking about?"

Emory Boy: "Same thing you are."

B. G.: "Well you'd better not, and if you try I'll slap your face."

There may be some doubt in mind of the reader as to what these two young people were thinking about. If such is the case, those who are in doubt may well be reminded of the process of osculation, which is in vogue among certain college students. For the consolation of the dumb, it may be stated that the custom of kissing is not universal, there being certain African tribes to which it is unknown.

PURITY LEAGUE
Taking for their motto: "Politix at Emory Shall Be As Pure As a Snowflake on an Angel's Wing," and motivated by a high purpose, these brave lads set out to purify the political atmosphere, displaying the same dauntless courage as that shown by their Crusader ancestors, and a spirit of unselfishness worthy of Sidney Carton. They wanted nothing for themselves—we know that because they broke down and admitted it—but yearned for purity for purity's sake.
Which reminds us: "A cross-eyed girl may be a paragon of virtue, but she don't look straight."
Now that the dust and smoke of the battle surrounding the ballot box has cleared away, and we can survey the field of glory in the calm, cool light of reason, the Bull Moose Party appears in its true light. Bull Moose was well named. Bull was its mainstay, and a better group of toreadors than Pinkie, Sump, Harris and Charlie were probably never assembled in one group before. The word "Moose," it seems, was superfluous, being added merely for the sake of euphony or for historical reasons.

BALLARD'S GLASSES

Those who wear Ballard Glasses already know, and the general public is rapidly learning, that the quality, style, and service that enters into every pair of Ballard's glasses, repair work, adjustment of frames or any kind of service pertaining to optics is not always found elsewhere. Why? Because every man in our employ is an expert in the particular works he does. We are exclusive opticians, no side lines of any kind. Ask the better oculists and physicians who do not demand a commission on prescriptions for glasses referred to the optician, what they think of our method of rendering service.

Atlanta Theater Concert Marked Success

Tolleson Chit Chats With Great Talent. Phillips Bull Fiddle Makes Enormous Hit

On February 23 and 24, John Knox, Incorporated, appeared at the Atlanta Theatre in a brilliant and varied program which explained to thousands who thronged the theatre why this talented organization has become known as the South's Slickest Singers. People over the entire United States were delighted with the first half of the concert as broadcasted by the Equinox, but unfortunately the last half of the concert could not be given via wireless as Mr. Edward Jones lost step in the Parade of the Wooden Soldiers and stepped into the apparatus. As Mr. Jones middle name is not Cork, he effectually smashed it. The police instituted an inquiry, but their efforts were without success as Mr. Jones, in order to clear his conscience, shot himself immediately after the concert.

The ensemble singing of the club was as good as might be expected under the circumstances. The outstanding hit of this part of the program was Mr. Tolleson, supported by the chorus, in Chit Chat. His original and brilliant interpretation of this popular song was followed by storms of applause, during which three girls were carried out in a dead faint. Mr. Tolleson told our reporter that he was very sorry that such a regrettable thing should have happened, but that he was born that way and just couldn't help it.

Mr. Phillips, bull fiddle virtuoso, rendered with rare sympathy "Throw Out the Life Line" from the opera "Sink or Swim." After repeated and sustained applause he rendered as an encore a touching little thing entitled "You May Not Feel That Way, But You Are Just The Same" by Cone. Strong men wept! Mr. Phillips has received flattering offers from several moving picture companies.

A unique number was an overture by Mr. Wallace Re(i)d Talley. When the curtain went up Mr. Talley and a forty piece orchestra were on the stage. After a masterly rendering of the Storm Scene from William Tell, Mr. Talley turned around and revealed to the astonished audience that he had done the whole thing with his lips! The orchestra had not played a note! After long applause Mr. Talley was persuaded to return and sing with his golden tenor voice Tosti’s "Goodbye."
His rendition was so sincere that many of the audience got up and left with tears of farewell in their eyes. Of all the South's Slick Singers Mr. Talley is by all odds the slickest. Mr. Talley has sold the rights to the National Paint Company for the use of his name on one of their new paint products.

Mr. Phat Milton's aggregation of mean string pickers rendered several jazzy numbers, the meanest of which was entitled the 'Equus Blues.' This hit was written by the talented hoof of Mr. Cyrus Sharp, of the Horses. For encore this gifted aggregation, comprising Mr. Milton, Mr. Sharp, Mr. Hunt, and Mr. Baker, rendered "I Begged You But You Told Me Neigh."

A write-up of the program would be incomplete without mention of the head of the club, Mr. John Knox. Mr. Knox was so busy worrying about starting on time that he worried through the first three numbers and did not get on the stage until the middle of part one of the program. That Mr. Knox's vocal contribution made quite a difference in the singing of the club was very evident. After Mr. Knox came on the stage the rest of the club could not be heard at all. Madame Rumor hath it that Mr. Dave Ellis has challenged Mr. Knox to mortal combat for this very reason. The duel will be with short swords—at forty paces.

The program closed with a comic operetta called 'The Competitors.' Mr. Chapin's highly cultivated and brilliantly beautiful voice reached high C once, and almost made it twice. Mr. Peabody rendered the aria 'O Min' with rare feeling, and in the song, 'You Talk A Lot, But Just The Same You're Dumb,' he shared honors with Mr. Knox. Their work was so realistic that police reserves were called out Mr. Tolleson come in for his share of the honors of the cast by taking the part of Lydia. The scene where little Lydia gets drunk and shoots out the lights was enacted with rare feeling and remarkable accuracy in the handling of a double barrelled shotgun.

Mention of the director must not be omitted. Several members of the audience noticed a nervous gentleman waving at the club during every number. His conspicuous position on the front row was most annoying and distracting to the singers. It is rumored that he has been forced to resign, under pressure, for meddling in all the affairs of the club. In answer to numerous inquiries, the Equinox makes the statement that the tall gentleman in the box office, the one with the doughnut eye-glasses and the six-shooter in his belt, was Mr. Jesse James Dombrowsky, one of the closest business managers that ever kited a check.

All in all, it was a most remarkable performance. Mr. Dave Ellis says that he cannot remember a better one unless it was the concert given when he first sang on the Emory Glee Club in the spring of '83.
First Theologue: "We Emory men have to endure rather poor ear service."

Second Theologue: "What's the matter? Don't you get a seat?"

First Theologue: "Yes. But my wife gets tired of standing sometimes."

It is not so much what a girl knows as how she learnt it.
Time is un gallent: it tells on a woman.
Most interesting thing in the world, to a woman, is an indifferent man, and the most uninteresting thing in the world to a man is an indifferent woman.
It may be true that the first man fell for an apple, but the women have to use their heads nowadays.
